

NEWMARKET AIMS AT $350,000 MARK

WE ARE FIVE NEWMARKET LADS

The five stalwart-looking Newmarket lads with Canada's active forces pictured above are Robert Dixon, Jack Malcolm, Jack Luck, Stanley Evans and Fred Cunningham.

Mayor Renews Invitation To U.S. Friends To Visit Home

SEND MARKED PAPER OR CLIPPING TO A FRIEND IN U. S. A.

Newmarket hopes to do its part in the province-wide movement to bring American visitors here this summer, and thus help the exchange situation, Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales told The Era this week.

Every citizen is urged to write friends in the United States asking them to visit Ontario this summer, and suggesting the first week in July as a time when other friends will be here. It is suggested that this article might be marked and The Era forwarded to some U. S. friend. Every Ontario citizen can take some part in this patriotic effort.

DOCTORS AND WIVES HAVE DAY'S OUTING

The York County Medical Society held its annual ladies' day and golf tournament at "The Briers," Jackson's Point, yesterday. About 50 members and guests with their ladies took part.

Winners in the golf tournament were Dr. James Urquhart, Aurora, winner of the cup for annual competition, Dr. G. McLean, Woodbridge, Dr. Garret Williams, Aurora, and Dr. O. M. Beattie, Sutton. Guest winners were Dr. Harold Leary, Sutton, and Harry Lambert, Newmarket.

Prize-winners in the ladies' bridge were Mrs. H. M. Cooke, Toronto, and Mrs. S. J. Boyd, Newmarket. The ladies were taken for a boat ride on Lake Simcoe during the afternoon.

In the evening, the members and guests enjoyed a splendid luncheon served by Mrs. Percy Lloyd and her staff and a very interesting program of toasts and addresses followed.

Guest speakers were Dr. Malcolm Cameron, president of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, and Dr. H. M. Cooke, inspector of hospitalization for the county of York.

Miss Gwendolyn Lambert of Newmarket, accompanied by Gerald Rutledge, gave a very delightful song recital and Wm. White of Newmarket entertained the evening by leading community songs and with piano selections.

Dance Machine Made To Cough Up To Intruders

The R. S. A. bugle band hall was broken into last Wednesday night and the money-in-the-slot record-player was rifled of an unknown amount of money. Entry was made through a cellar window, which was broken in the process. The hall is also operated as the Saturday Night club by Frank S. Smith of Newmarket.

VISITS PARENTS

Fred Cunningham of the Royal Canadian Engineers survey branch was home for the weekend.

LIFE YET HAS PURPOSE IN IT - JOE McCULLEY

SAYS FAITH MUST BE COMBINED WITH WORK, PLAY, LOVE, WORSHIP

DISMISSES SCHOOL

"Faith is the Victory," was the subject of Headmaster Joseph McCulley's farewell address to the students of Pickering College last week as they prepared to disperse for the summer holidays.

"Baine in his rectorial address to the students of St. Andrew's University reminded his hearers that 'memories are given us that we might have roses in December,'" said Mr. McCulley.

"Man alone has conscious memory. Man remembers, associates, reflects and judges of the values—the things worth-while—in his life.

"So you will do in a few days," Mr. McCulley said to the graduating students. "Your life here, your fellow students, your staff, your classes, your games, your triumphs, your defeats, all merge into one pattern.

"I hope the pattern is good, that among all the colors and shades in it there is a thread of gold running through that gives continuity to the whole—and that when you do look back it will be with pleasure that so much has been good.

"Our purpose this year has been to provide for all here a small oasis—a haven in a time of storm—and at the same time to prepare you, as one writer (Page 2, Col. 5)

GARRETT CANE HONORS DIVIDED AT PICKERING

Herb Cain, Newmarket, hockey star with Boston Bruins, Foster Hewitt, famous Canadian hockey announcer, and A. W. Steel presented the athletic honor awards to Pickering College's outstanding athletes at their annual closing dinner last week.

Other awards were made and Allan Rogers and Charles Graham, both of Toronto, were chosen by their fellow students for the Garrett cane, which is presented to Pickering's all-round student. It was a dual award for the second time.

VISITS CHICAGO

Harry Goodman, Newmarket automotive dealer, left this week on a business trip to Chicago.

BUSINESS LADY IS ILL

Mrs. W. S. Perrin, florist, is at home ill, and will be away from the store for some time yet.

Public Gives For Those Who Sail Seas In Ships

Despite rainy weather, success crowned the Navy League tag day in Newmarket on Saturday and $228, including private donations, was given to Canada's men of the seas.

"We were very gratified at the results," Mrs. Robert Martin, chairman of the tag day, told The Era this week. "The weather was against us, but the public was with us."

Donning raincoats or carrying umbrellas, the pretty girl taggers paid no heed to the weather in getting the tags across to Newmarket citizens.

Mrs. Martin expressed thanks to the taggers and the ladies who took part in the work, Roy Rhinchar, manager of the Strand theatre, for screen announcements, W. J. McCappin, for the use of Jack's Grill for the day, and the Newmarket newspapers.

VETERANS ACKNOWLEDGE GIFTS FOR VICTIMS' FUND

Members of the Newmarket Veterans' Association are asked to remember the Decoration Day parade on Sunday, June 29, in Aurora.

The veterans wish to acknowledge two gifts to be sent through their organization to the Telegram British War Victims' Fund: $10 from the Canadian Association of Master Painters and Decorators, through F. N. Chandler; and $25, the proceeds from a bedspread donated to the fund by Miss May Wright. Tickets for this were sold by Mrs. Walter Adams, and Mrs. J. Kay was the winner.

Water Flows Up At Rate Of 750 Gals. A Minute At Cotter

DETAILS, PICTURES of New Well . . . See Page 8

A seven-to-one shot came home this week and all Newmarket will benefit from it. A test-hole being drilled at Cotter St. developed into a gushing flow of water that yesterday was running 765 gallons to the minute.

In seven different spots, before the present strike, in the last couple of years, test-holes have been drilled, and only the Green Lane produced a good flow. However, the town council shied at developing the Green Lane well because of the cost and the fact that its flow of water would run against the town mains and stir up both sediment and a great fuss from the citizens.

It is expected that the Cotter St. flow may be stabilized at about 500 gallons a minute and the town can pump whatever water it needs. "Practically our only expense is the well," Deputy-Reeve Joseph Vale told The Era. Town mains are at hand to transport the water throughout the town, he said.

"The water tastes good and looks good," said Councillor A. D. Evans, chairman of the water and light committee. "However, we don't want to make any predictions now."

Deputy-Reeve Vale and Councillors Evans, chairman, and J. L. Spillotte comprise the town water and light committee, which is in charge of the operations.

Children Sell Candy And Flowers, Help Front Line

SCHOOL EXHIBITION NIGHT BENEFITS FUNDS FOR WAR VICTIMS

The Red Cross and the British war victims' fund were winners at the annual training night of the Newmarket public schools held in the Stuart Scott school on Friday evening.

Donald Davis auctioned flowers from the flower stand of Marilyn McInnis and Marion Klees, pupils from Principal H. A. Jackson's classroom, and realized $4.25 for the Red Cross.

Students from L. W. Melbourne's room, King George school, and from John Scott's room, Alexander Muir school, sold candies. The money went to British war victims' relief.

Those taking part from Mr. Melbourne's room were Betty Stephens, Marilyn Spear, Beverly Bartholomew, Helen Zogala, Helen Epworth, Donna McKenzie, Leola Legge, Irene Hill, Doreen Ruthven.

Those from Mr. Scott's room were Shirley Andrews, Ruth Edwards, Elida Fogal, Marion Harman, Rena Woodcock, Miriam Hyman, Betty Bunn, Bernice Darrach, Pearl Gunn, Beth Legge, Betty Haight, Sheila Inglis, Audrey Lepard, Mary Lou Little, Patricia Long, Marie Landy, Arlene McTavish, Eloise Miller, Eva Moore, Lois Pemberton, Jean Ann Perry, Audrey Rowland, Barbara Wilson, Virginia VanSant, Betty Skinner and Pauline Longhurst also helped in selling the candy.

OF KING TWP. PIONEER STOCK, DIES IN U. S.

The death occurred in Cleveland, Ohio, of Mrs. Wm. R. (Robin) Adair, formerly Georgia Bogart of Newmarket, on June 17. Of pioneer stock, she was the daughter of George Bogart and Susan Webb, of King township.

In 1900 Georgia Bogart married W. R. Adair and they lived for a short time in Parry Sound. In 1902 they moved to Cleveland, where she has lived ever since. Mr. Adair died in 1929.

Mrs. Adair is survived by a son, Bruce, who lived at home, a daughter, Jean (Mrs. C. A. Brogerson), in Cleveland, a brother, H. G. Bogart, Hillsdale, Mich., and three sisters, Mrs. Olive C. Stanciloff, Gerard, Pa., Miss Sarah R. Watson, Newmarket, and Mrs. Martha A. Campbell, Toronto.

Mrs. Adair was laid to rest in Lakeview cemetery, Cleveland.

BUGLE BAND DANCE, CARNIVAL ARE JUNE 25

The annual carnival, street dance and soap-box derby, sponsored by the Newmarket R.S.A. bugle band, will be held on Main St. on Wednesday, June 25. A gala affair is being planned.

As usual, the soap-box derby will start at the top of Main St. hill, by Hillsdale dairy and finish at Water St.

The band has willingly co-operated with town organizations whenever requested and is worthy of support. Hot-dog booths, ice cream stands, and games of chance, will be among the attractions.

Minimum Objective Will Not Be Enough

Ottawa, June 18.—Canada's 1941 Victory loan should reach its minimum objective by Friday if the present rate of progress is maintained. The total up to Tuesday night stood at $538,773,000 from 802,088 individual subscribers.

National headquarters will not be satisfied with the nominal objective. "Canada's torch of freedom must go to Winston Churchill but let us make it go home," G. W. Spinney, national executive chairman, said in a message to his field forces.

MRS. E. BRAMMER IS LEADING PRIZEWINNER

A rather small but very successful peony show was held in St. Paul's Memorial hall last Saturday afternoon and evening. While not so large in numbers, the quality of bloom was the finest ever exhibited by the society.

The highlight of the show was the artistic display of peonies for the E. J. Davis, Jr. prize, which were grown and arranged by the secretary of the local horticultural society, Norman Williams. The sweepstake peony was also won by N. Williams with a giant bloom of "Theresa." A "Talisman" grown and exhibited by Mrs. E. Brammer was a very worthy winner of the rose sweepstake.

The society is to be congratulated for the work they are doing in trying to encourage a love of flowers among the school children. Some of the bouquets, arranged at the show under the supervision of the show committee, would put some of the older exhibitors to shame. The first prize was a masterpiece of arrangement and color-blending by a newcomer, Master Donald Wicke.

The prize-winners were as follows: Best three blooms, white, Mrs. E. Brammer, N. Williams; best three blooms, light pink, J. J. McCaffrey, N. Williams; best three blooms, deep pink, N. Williams; best three blooms, red, N. Williams, Mrs. E. Brammer; best three blooms, fancy varieties, Mrs. E. Brammer; best three blooms, any other variety, Mrs. E. Brammer.

Best three blooms, open to exhibitors never having won a peony prize before, Mrs. Max Smith, Mrs. Chas. Harman; best basket, not over 12 blooms, J. J. McCaffrey; best artistic display, not less than 50 blooms, Norman Williams; best arranged bowl of pansies, N. Williams, Mrs. E. Brammer.

Roses, two blooms, Mrs. E. Brammer; roses, best collection, Mrs. E. Brammer; best vase of flowers, open to school children, Donald Wicke, Beverly Hill, Audrey Hill; best arranged basket, living-room, Mrs. E. Brammer, Mrs. Chas. Harman.

The leading winners were Mrs. E. Brammer with seven first and two seconds, and Norman Williams, with five firsts and two seconds.

ORCHARD AND MOUNT TAKE SOFTBALL WINS

In a game that featured heavy hitting and poor fielding, Keswick shaded Pine Orchard 17 runs to 16 in a Lake Simcoe league softball game played at Pine Orchard Monday night.

Bill Lawton pitched for the winners up until the last inning, when Pine Orchard threatened to tie the game. Knights were sent in and managed to retire the side, with Pine Orchard needing only one run to tie the game.

Morley Cook and Preston pitched for Pine Orchard and Doug Hope caught. Ken Hodgins was behind the Keswick plate.

Mount Albert over-ran Zephyr softball team last Thursday night in Mount Albert and came out with a 9-3 decision.

Zephyr put up a good fight and at one time held a 3-0 lead. Ken Mitchell pitched for the winners and Rynard and Arnold for Zephyr.

Charlie Cunningham of Newmarket umpired at both games.

RECEIVES HEAD INJURY WHEN HIT BY BICYCLE

An accident occurred at the King George school on Monday afternoon, when Lowell Bray was knocked down by a bicycle and received a slight injury on his head. He was treated by Dr. L. W. Dales.

Every Citizen Digs Deep To Put Town High In Victory Loan

Must Act Now To Have Share In Great Canadian Win-The-War Effort, Many Citizens Give Twice

Newmarket is now aiming at the $350,000 mark in the Victory Loan campaign, it was learned at headquarters in the King George hotel today.

Canvassers are making many second calls in an effort to reach this new objective, and every citizen is urged to add to his subscription if at all possible.

The response to second calls has been particularly good.

The North York district is doing splendidly, and while no figures were available headquarters made it clear that committees and canvassers hope to make big gains between now and Saturday midnight, when the campaign closes.

Weakness was found in farm districts, where in many instances although the spirit was willing the purse was weak.

This was particularly evident in North Gwillimbury township, largely a farm township (except for summer cottagers who are contacted elsewhere), but headquarters expressed the hope that North Gwillimbury would "snap out of it" and make its quota before Saturday night.

North Gwillimbury was the leading township in North York in the auxiliary services campaign.

Victory Loan Cavalcade Graphically Tells War Story To Citizens Crowding Main St. Saturday

Led by an R.C.A.F. band, the monster Victory Loan cavalcade of floats, telling Canadians how victory can be won, moved through the town on Saturday night. Main St. was crowded with admiring spectators who cheered the King and Queen and Winston Churchill, floats of whom led the parade, on their way.

The Newmarket Citizens' band and a large force of soldiers from the camp, led by a pipe band, joined the cavalcade as it entered Main St. A convoy of 40 trucks with mounted floats, ten motorcycles and other vehicles of war, took part in the parade. The parade arrived at 7 p.m.

Later the cavalcade, over a mile long, moved down Yonge St., passing through Aurora and other towns along its route of march. Major I. C. Ellard of M.D. No. 2, was the officer commanding the cavalcade.

Children's Fund Gets Going Everyone Invited To Help

ONE GIFT COMES FROM FORMER RESIDENT IN U. S. A.

The Newmarket newspapers' Queen Elizabeth subscription list (Lions British Child War Victims' Fund administered by the queen) is off to a good start.

A balance of $27.84 was carried forward from the Newmarket, England, Spitfire fund. One of the first gifts for the new fund came from Mrs. James Adie of Point Pleasant, West Virginia. Formerly Katie Smith of Newmarket, Mrs. Adie sent a U. S. $10 bill worth $11 in Canadian funds.

Make your gift through either local newspaper, H. E. Lambert, Bank of Toronto, treasurer, or H. M. Gladman, Canadian National Express, secretary.

CHILDREN EVER THE SAME, WORLD MUST BE DIFFERENT

Foods change, architecture changes, means of locomotion change, customs and morals change, methods of fighting change, even toys change, but children remain the same.

They still see a horse in a stick of wood, a mountain in a rumple in the floor-rug, a castle in a pile of sand, and a lake in a puddle of rain-water.

They still fight and scream to gain their own way, tell amazing tales of their own adventures and demand stories of when mother was a little girl.

And they still live in a world which has not been made "safe for democracy," and once again play the same old game of soldiers and guns and shot and shell.

This must be the last war. This must be the war to end wars.

There must be sacrificial support of the Allied war leader, Winston Churchill, who, during the first Great War had the imagination to sponsor the tanks which contributed so largely to the ultimate victory and, though his advice was not taken, had the charity to urge on Nov. 11, 1918, the immediate sending of shiploads of food to hungry Germany.

Victory bond money will be used to strengthen the hand of Churchill, strong in battle, forgiving in victory, and to make the world safe for children and democracy.

A WAGE INCREASE FOR FARMERS

Farmers are credited with a unity of thought, singleness of purpose and closeness of organization to which they are not entitled when we who print what we write speak glibly of "farmers" without the modification of "some" or "most" or "all."

For example, the Port Erie Times-Review declares: "Farmers want the public to buy more of their products—and at higher prices. At the same time they conduct campaigns to have the wages of industrial workers lowered. Perhaps Pharaoh's command that Israel make bricks without straw wasn't so unreasonable after all."

Our point is that "some" farmers may want higher prices and bigger sales and at the same time conduct campaigns for a reduction of industrial wages. Certainly "all" or even "most" farmers don't conduct such campaigns, and responsible farm leaders don't take such a position.

Mr. H. H. Hannam, Toronto, is the president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. In a recent statement Mr. Hannam said that farm prices had been pegged from going higher "at a time when farm produce prices are 33 percent lower than they were in 1926. On the other hand, labor has been 'legislated' to receive wages on a parity with 1926 levels or better—and rightly so—and hence, the prices of those things which the farm producer must buy have gone proportionately higher in the interim."

Note Mr. Hannam's approval of wage bolstering. "Rightly so," he says. Mr. Hannam of course may be too generous. As the farmer buys in the domestic market and sells at prices determined by the export market, it is questionable whether he doesn't feel high industrial wages on the expense side of his ledger more than he benefits from them on the revenue side. The truth is that an increase in industrial wages is a decrease in farm buying power (or real wages) and an increase in farm prices is a decrease in labor's buying power (or real wages). We wouldn't expect farmers to welcome an increase in industrial wages any more than we would expect labor to welcome a purely domestic increase in farm prices (an increase in world prices, bringing more money into the country, is a different matter). The problem is to strike a fair balance as between fellow citizens on farm and in factory.

From our own point of view, we regard it as just as constructive to argue that farmers should get better returns so that they may buy more industrial products and urban labor may be better paid, as to argue that urban labor should be paid better wages so that they may buy more farm products at higher prices and farmers get better returns. The first plan might work, because labor has the organization to demand a share in any increased prosperity on the part of industry, but farmers have not the organization to demand better prices when labor is better able to pay. In fact, the present moment seems to show that increased farm prosperity does not follow increased industrial prosperity.

As Professor J. L. McDougall of Queen's University says in the Canadian Banker of April, 1941, "The protests of hurt surprise that broke out in the newspapers in all the larger cities when the price of butter began to rise last December was proof, if proof were needed, that the urban population had grown fully used to food prices which meant distress to the farm population, and felt that such prices should be maintained to preserve them against disturbance of established habits and expectations."

We think it will be agreed that the wage return to people working on the land and in factories, in the same country, should be roughly the same.

On this point John Atkins in the National Home Monthly says: "The city wage is almost three times as much as the farm income for which farm people work seven days a week, without holidays, from 12 to 16 hours per day in many cases, with an average farm investment of $6,000 on which they get nothing. Then those city workers who earn salaries get more than wage-earners, and employers have their profits in addition to salaries."

But Mr. Atkins is a journalist and a farmer, living in Muskoka, and so we would like to turn back to Professor McDougall for more conservative statements: "The census contains the final answer to the relative attractiveness of farm life under the conditions existing in the 1920's . . . Between the two census dates (1921 and 1931), the rural areas lost about 71 percent of their estimated natural increase and the total movement of native-born and of immigrants who first settled upon the land and later moved to the cities was about 670,000-700,000 persons. The 1920's, which we now look back on as a period of relative agricultural prosperity, was in fact one in which the return to rural workers was too low to hold them upon the land."

Professor McDougall: "At 1911, male farm workers were 38.9 percent of all males gainfully employed. Over the five years 1911-15 agricultural income averaged 29.8 percent of the national income. For the five years 1915-19 it averaged 32.8 percent. It is far from being an equality, but by comparison with later developments it looks like paradise itself."

"In 1920 agricultural income went into a decline from which it has never recovered . . . At the bottom of the depression farm workers comprising some 34 percent of all males gainfully employed received about 7.1 percent of all income paid out."

Professor McDougall: "It is not realized with sufficient clarity how vastly different are the policies followed by agriculture in depression from those followed by the rest of the community. In the depressed years after 1928 farming alone of all the great industries of the country kept up the level of its productive effort. All the others contracted output, kept up their selling prices as best they could, and threw back the labor which such a policy made superfluous upon the general community to be maintained by relief or otherwise. From the social point of view there can be no comparison between the two policies."

"The production of useful goods in the largest possible quantities ought to be one of the primary ends of economic activity, and efforts to maintain a system of prices which blocks production ought to be unhesitatingly condemned. The consequences to agriculture of following the socially desirable policy have been shown above."

Professor McDougall: "In time of war Canadian production is doubly valuable to Great Britain because it involves the shortest sea-haul. This is one thing on which we must not fall down, and we stand in danger of that very thing unless we allow higher returns to the farm population. The labor necessary to the production of these essential war supplies will be drawn into the war industries before we realize what has happened. The spread in returns between the two sectors of the community is too great to permit any other result."

"Britain . . . might be compelled to buy elsewhere if we attempted to raise prices to anything close to the level necessary to produce 'parity' agricultural income. We are then driven back to the idea of a 'split price' system in which we shall hold down our export prices, while raising the controllable domestic price and attempt to distribute the gains of such a policy to all producers in proportion to their production. Only so can we keep enough farmers on the farms to fulfil our commitments to Great Britain."

GIVE UNCLE SAM A CHANCE

People who are impatient about the slowness of the United States in getting into the great struggle should take an eyeful of PM, mushroom New York tabloid, to realize over what a seething cauldron of differing humanity President Franklin D. Roosevelt presides.

American democracy is in labor and it will be some time before she produces the clear-cut, united will necessary for a really effective war effort.

Until the United States straightens out her punches, the help of Canada is going to be tremendously important. When the great struggle is over, and the contributions of all combatants can be measured, Canada may appear to be the boy who kept his finger in the hole in the dyke until greater help came.

Canada's munitions production is said now to be greater than it was at any time during the Great War of 1914-18. Canada is spending over a billion dollars this year on war. We do not know how fast this help, turned into ships, planes, munitions, guns, trucks, pilots, fighting men, is reaching Britain, but we do know from President Roosevelt that lease-lend help sent to China and Britain in the past two months was $75,000,000—considerably below the Canadian war expenditure rate.

In the long run it will be America's factories which turn the tide of battle, but today Canada's factories are holding the dyke. Dollars subscribed to the Victory loan are immediate help to the beleaguered Allies. And they can be subscribed with the knowledge that in the hands of the spending ministers, Messrs. Halsey and Howe, there will be a minimum of the inevitable waste, extravagance, patronage and profiteering.

YOU CAN GET TWO YEARS FOR THIS

A Kirkland Lake man is in hospital as a result of his second attempt to commit suicide by drinking a considerable quantity of lye. Once before lye failed and it seems likely to fail again. There must always be sympathy with those who feel that life's cares and burdens are greater than its joys and hopes, but the fact is often forgotten that attempted suicide is a crime punishable with as much as two years imprisonment. You can be punished for attempting suicide but you can't be punished for succeeding in it. It's not fair, but there you are.

Major Alan Cockeram of the Toronto Irish and M. P. from South York attacked the entire Canadian army set-up in a house of commons speech last week. He said that high army positions were conferred as "political plums," and that the third and fourth Canadian divisions are poorly equipped. Defence Minister Ralston answered the charges and said that everything possible was being done to increase army efficiency.

King Leopold of Belgium was absorbed in a British court last week of treachery and cowardice in surrendering to the Germans at the height of the battle of Flanders a year ago. A libel suit brought by Admiral Sir Roger Keyes, who had served as special British liaison officer to Leopold during the invasion, against the London Daily Mirror for publishing an article criticizing him for describing Leopold as "a very gallant soldier," brought out the facts.

New United States bombers, being made at Baltimore and destined for Britain, are described as being able to outspeed some of the latest pursuit ships. This model will be called the "Baltimore" by Britain.

A Canadian military spokesman, commenting upon a Vichy report that units of Canada's forces are fighting in Syria, said that if there are any Canadians on that front they are members of British or Free French units. Axis sources have claimed that Canadians have been and are fighting in the Mediterranean theatre of war.

The United States demanded on Monday that Germany close all of its consulates and certain travel and propaganda agencies in the country by July 10. This is classed as a step just short of breaking diplomatic relations. Fifth-column activity by the Germans prompted the demand.

Confusion reigns as to Germany's intentions towards Russia. German troops are arranged along the Russian border and it is said that Hitler will sound the attack against Russia unless the Kremlin agrees to an alliance with the Reich that would give Hitler concessions in the Ukraine and a path through Russia to Syria.

Britain's secret weapon against German air raiders was disclosed yesterday to be radio location, a scientific device which warns of approaching planes miles away and does away with the necessity of keeping patrols constantly in the air to guard against surprise attack.

A British thrust this week into Libya has developed into a battle of tanks and planes. Axis forces are said to have been diverted from besieged Tobruk to help stem the British attack. American-built planes are competing against the latest German machines for control of the air.

says, "with legs of iron for the race of life."

"The school is a little world, and its life should be complete. I want to discuss with you, at the end of the year, the complete life and its component parts."

These were work, play, love and worship, which Mr. McCulley discussed in turn.

"We cannot think even of heaven as a place where the saints go idly to and fro. Work is love made visible. Work is dream and vision made reality."

He told of three workmen on a cathedral. One, according to his own answer, was working "for ten shillings a day." Another was "cutting stones." The third said that he was "building a temple."

Mr. McCulley said that the Sabbath day was a recognition of the basic human need of change, relaxation, recreation. There was physical play and intellectual relaxation, he said. The latter was found in the college glee club, drama, reading and other activities.

"Love is the law of life," said Mr. McCulley, quoting Kagawa, and "God is love," quoting Jesus.

"Our world today seems a denial of the power of love in human affairs," he said. "Force, violence, hatred and bitterness are rampant but sooner or later we must learn the truth of that difficult commandment, 'Love your enemies.'"

"In the school we have counted the building of friendship as one of the most important parts of our job. Sometimes we become impatient, and want to obtain quick results, but in the long run the only way to deal with people is on the basis of Jesus' commands."

"As you go out into the world, do not let your life be embittered by hate."

"Worship is the fourth foundation stone of a full, rich and complete life," said Mr. McCulley. "I don't mean it in narrow or purely theological terms. It is rather a loyalty to great issues, great causes, great purposes, for which you are willing to live or die as the circumstances may direct."

"There are those who worship money, material success, comfort, luxury. One trouble with our world today is that individuals and nations have worshipped unworthy gods."

"It is my profound conviction that this universe of ours, vaster than our wildest dreams, more complex than the most complicated machinery that ever could be devised by the mind of man, is a universe of law and of purpose."

"I am sure that in all ages and in all countries those who have achieved greatness for their fellows have somehow or another sensed this fact—even though they haven't always agreed on the name."

"Work, play, love and worship are held together by the cement of faith," Mr. McCulley declared. "Work without faith is drudgery. Play without faith is frivolity. Love without faith is sentimentality. Worship without faith is hypocrisy."

"As you go out from school don't let the cynics and the hard-boiled realists tell you that the age of man's glory is over, that the period of his accomplishment is over."

"Let your faith be a burning torch. Let your faith be an over-mastering passion, an overpowering ideal. Only for those who greatly believe and who greatly venture can great dreams come true."

INCLEMENT WEATHER DOES NOT SPOIL W. M. S. TEA

A lovely tea, under the supervision of Mrs. Boulton Hewitt, was held by the afternoon auxiliary of the W. M. S. of the United church, at the home of Mrs. F. H. Robinson last Thursday afternoon.

The ladies were admitted to the home by Mrs. Murphy, and to the living-room by the hostess, Mrs. Robinson.

The tea-room was beautiful, with flowers tastefully placed about the room. Mrs. S. J. Boyd greeted the guests in the tea-room, where a lovely lunch was served.

The president of the W. M. S., Mrs. M. B. Seldon, poured tea, assisted by Mrs. C. E. Cunningham, Mrs. W. O. Noble, Mrs. C. S. Gilbert and Mrs. H. E. Gilroy. Other helpers were Mrs. H. A. Jackson, Mrs. Hewitt, Mrs. Maines, Miss L. Toole and Mrs. Earl Pipher.

Despite the inclemency of the weather, the tea was a decided success, and a substantial sum was realized for the allocation of the society.

SNOWBALL 94 YEARS OLD, MAKES QUILTS FOR RED CROSS

Margaret Rose Barr, nine-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Barr, was christened last Sunday in the Snowball United church by Rev. W. J. Burton.

Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Burton were supper guests with the Barr family on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sharp of Listowel were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. James McMorin.

Over 200 people attended the barn raising at the farm of Aubrey Wood last Tuesday afternoon.

The community held a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Mary Wilson, a bride of this week, at the home of Mrs. Ernest Copson on Wednesday evening of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hambleton, Freda and Wayne, of Newmarket, spent last Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mills. Congratulations are extended to Mrs. William Davison, who was the winner of many prizes at the Aurora flower show last week.

Quite a number of young people from this vicinity attended the Junior Farmers' picnic and dance at Musselman's Lake last Friday.

The Snowball Women's Institute will hold the June meeting at the home of Mrs. H. Patrick on Wednesday afternoon, June 25. The program is: roll-call, "How to help an underprivileged child," health and child welfare, convener, Mrs. Howard Morning; Dr. A. P. Kay of Schomberg, guest speaker; current events by Mrs. Ernest Copson; demonstration on first aid by the "Happy Gang" junior girls. A draw will be made at this meeting for the Madeira linen bedroom set donated by the Aurora General

The Peony Show

By GOLDEN GLOW

The second flower show of the season was held in St. Paul's parish hall, last Saturday afternoon and evening. This time it was the peony show. Whether the storms and the long-looked for rain was responsible for the lack of exhibits I cannot say, but what were there were the most perfect specimens ever seen here. Besides the peony exhibits, there were pansies, roses, lupins and aquilegia (the new variety of old-fashioned columbines), baskets of flowers for living-room and a vase of flowers arranged by a school pupil right there at the hall, under the eye of the judge, and I must admit that the first prize-winner had a very creditable bouquet, and it well deserved the prize.

A pleasing innovation was the "best artistic display of peonies, not more than 50 blooms." The popular secretary of the horticultural society, Norman Williams, carried off the prize and he certainly earned it for he had gone to considerable trouble, but the result was worth it, I feel sure.

It was what he called a "shadow box." Jokingly I asked him as I saw it from across the room, "Is that a shrine?" So he took me over and explained. It was certainly beautiful. In the box itself high up, an artistic vase, filled with pure white peonies, glowed forth from the dark background of the interior of the box, the edges of which were like a gilt frame of a picture. And it was a picture with the jars and vases of magnificent peonies displayed on a velvet draped stand ten or more feet in height. I hope the photo taken of it turns out a good one and that Mr. Williams will allow the papers to print it for I cannot adequately describe it and it certainly was a work of art. The storm and the long delay of the Victory loan parade of floats quite spoiled the attendance in the evening.

EVERSLEY ANNIE FERGUSON IS BRIDE OF F. W. CURTIS

Mr. and Mrs. John A. A. Ferguson and infant son, Michael, John, visited Saturday afternoon at Scots Wm. Hae' with their uncle and aunt, T. A. Ferguson and A. A. Ferguson.

With a perfect June setting for their wedding, Miss Annie Roberta Ferguson, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ferguson, of Maple Avenue farm, was married to Frederick William Curtis of King City north.

Rev. M. E. Burch, till recently the bride's pastor, returning from attending the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in Canada, officiated at the wedding, and Louis Phillips of Downview played the wedding march.

Miss Ethel Ferguson was her sister's bridesmaid, while James Wells of Bradford, brother-in-law of the groom, supported the groom.

Among the guests were the immediate family, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Wells of Bradford, some of the bride's friends from Downsview, and Miss Jessie Gellatly of King City.

After the ceremony and a wedding dinner, the newlyweds left for a motor trip to points north. They will reside on the groom's farm in King.

The bride's wedding gown was a floor-length salmon pink sheer with matching gloves and shoulder-length veil. The bridesmaid wore a turquoise blue sheer with a bouquet of spring flowers and head-dress of matching flowers. The bride carried a bouquet of pink and white peonies.

Mrs. Curtis, mother of the groom, who had not been well for some time, was not able to be present at the marriage of her only son.

On Friday, June 13, the pupils of Eversley school held the closing exercises of their junior Red Cross, the Uti club. There was a large crowd of the parents of the community at the exercises. Kinghorn school, with its teacher, Miss McBride, announced for Red Cross work.

The hostesses will be Mrs. Beckett, Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Barr and Mrs. H. Morning.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Evans on the birth of a baby boy on Friday, June 13.

Mr. Bert Taylor spent Sunday with Mr. Allan Mills.

Mr. Thomas Cutting, who has been attending jury in Toronto, returned home last Friday.

Miss Edna Morning of Toronto spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Marritt and daughters of Keswick were Sunday evening visitors of the Barr family.

Mrs. Crofoot and daughters, Mrs. Sweetman, Mrs. Chalk, and Mrs. Jones and twin boys, motored from Toronto on Thursday of last week and spent the day with Mrs. Crofoot's sister, Mrs. Jennie Barr.

Mrs. Barr, although 94 years young, is enjoying remarkably good health and keeps herself quite busy making things for the Red Cross. She has already done four quilt tops for the Snowball group.

other branch of the junior Red Cross, was present.

Three ladies from the Toronto federation, Miss E. Hollinger, field secretary for the junior Red Cross, and Miss Nellie W. Brown, a mono-dramatist, with another lady at the organ, gave the program. Two of the renowned old teachers of King were called on to speak, W. Rolling and Miss E. Tinline. Miss Nellie Brown gave generously of her elocution, choosing Cockney characters, and they were wonderfully well portrayed, and very humorous.

After the program, there was a sale of work done by the manual training class of boys and home-cooking by the girls. These articles were on display at tables under the cedars and maples of the yard. The woodwork was very well done and sold readily, while the "cats" at the girls' stands were soon sold out.

A goat was brought from Kinghorn and tickets sold. The draw was made by Mary Elizabeth Cadden, the youngest child present, and became the property of Mrs. A. W. Archibald. Tea was provided by Eversley W.M.S. for the mission band and was much appreciated.

And so the great day came and went. A great red cross still hangs out to show the place of this well worth-while event.

Miss Nellie W. Brown has been secured as elocutionist for Eversley garden party to be held on June 25 at the Elliott farm.

MR. SONGSPARROW MEETS SOMEONE NEW

By RUTH DINGMAN HEEB

"Tell me," Young Chips, the Chickadee, said to Mr. Songsparrow, "did the Red-eyed Vireo you were telling me about last week desert her nest after the three Cowbird's eggs were taken out of it, and she was left with only the two of her own that had been punctured by the Wren? You said she seemed to be going back to it at the time."

"She didn't stay," replied the Songsparrow sadly. "She finally decided it wasn't any use, so she abandoned her nest and the two damaged eggs. It's a sad end to a sad story."

"I wonder if there's any chance that she would build another nest and lay more eggs in it," the Chickadee remarked.

"I really don't know, but we haven't seen either Mr. or Mrs. Vireo around for several days now," the Sparrow told him.

"The Wrens are there, though, singing noisily while Mrs. Wren sits on her eggs. I feel like going and sticking my bill right through her eggs just to avenge the Vireo."

"You couldn't do a thing like that any more than I could," Mr. Chickadee chirped. "It would be against our natures to do such a mean thing. Besides, those Wrens are scrappy birds and we probably wouldn't get a chance to get near the nest if we wanted to."

"Well, I must get back to my family," Young Chips said a moment later.

"Oh, I was just going to tell you about a rather uncommon bird I saw yesterday," said the Songsparrow gentlemen. "Can you stay a moment more?"

"I shouldn't, but I will," quickly decided the other bird.

"What was it, and where did you see him?"

"Yesterday morning, after I had helped get breakfast for the young ones, of course," began the Songsparrow, "I decided that I simply had to get away from that noisy gang of babies for an hour or two. Of course, Mrs. Songsparrow feels the same way, but she can't seem to get away."

"Where did you go?" inquired the Chickadee.

"I flew right over to the village of Ansonvold on the Holl-and Marsh," said the Sparrow. "It was quite interesting there, and I chatted with several of my own Songsparrow cousins and some other birds, too, and was just getting ready to come home when I looked down and saw him, right in the middle of the road."

"Who?" asked Young Chips.

"I didn't know myself, when I saw him," the Sparrow answered, "although I knew he must be a relative of our friend, the Killdeer Plover, but he was quite a bit smaller, much lighter in color and with different markings. I had to ask another Songsparrow who he was and was told he was a Piping Plover."

"I never saw one," the Chickadee said quite excitedly. "What did he look like?"

"Very light in color, with a smoke-gray back and head," answered his friend. "The Killdeer is quite brownish on his back, wings and head with a double dark ring around its neck. This bird had a black bar across the top of his head, a white forehead and collar and a black ring below the white one, but the black ring wasn't complete, for it was broken on the breast."

"How interesting!" said the Chickadee. "Was he nesting there?"

"Yes, apparently so," replied Mr. Songsparrow. "They are rather rare in these parts, how-

JOEL SEDORE CELEBRATES 77TH BIRTHDAY JUNE 4

A surprise birthday party was held for Joel Sedore of Keswick, at the home of his son, Ralph Sedore, Island Grove, on June 4, Mr. Sedore's 77th birthday.

Forty-one friends and relatives attended and everyone reported a good time. The men enjoyed a game of horse-shoes and the ladies enjoyed a truck ride.

The tables were set in the living-room and a sumptuous lunch of all kinds of sandwiches and cake, topped off with ice cream, was enjoyed by all. Mr. Sedore was seated at the head of the table with his wife at his right. A grandchild, Miss Irene Sedore, carried in a big, beautifully decorated birthday cake and placed it before the guest of honor, while everyone sang "Happy Birthday to You."

Friends and relatives left wishing Mr. Sedore a happy year to come.

SOLDIER SON IS VISITOR

ever, so I was quite pleased to see that one. They usually nest on sandy shores. The spot where I saw him was a flat, pebbly, sandy road.

"I learned that there's another Plover, the Semipalmated Plover, about the same size, but it is brownish above, like the Killdeer, and with a single, broad and complete, neck ring," the Songsparrow rambled on.

Young Chips realized suddenly how long he had been listening. "Gracious, how time does fly, and so must I!" he said abruptly.

"My mate will be tearing her feathers in sheer exasperation if I don't turn up soon. Good-bye," he rushed away toward home.

"I guess I'd better follow his example," the Songsparrow murmured, as he, too, turned toward his nest.

The Common Round

DISTRICT ANNUAL

By Isabel Inglis Colville

There is a very lovely anticipatory feeling when you wake up on the morning of a day which promises pleasant things.

My first look, on the morning of June 5th, was at the sky, and although my longing for rain is as keen as anybody's, I confess to a sneaking feeling of relief when the sky looked back at me, unshadowed by clouds.

Our Institute party, made up of Mrs. Ted. Johnston, Mrs. Fred Reid, Mrs. George Hunt, Mrs. Gordon McClure and I, was driven by Mr. Johnston, who had offered himself as a sacrificial victim on the altar of Institute necessity.

The morning was one of June in Canada's loveliest—everywhere the green, green land, the song of birds and the flashing glimpse of riotous color, where flowers bloomed.

I felt impelled to compose a song entitled "The Hills of King," but thought better of it and enjoyed the broadcast of information relating to the country through which we drove, given by two of our party, to whom King spelled childhood's home.

In due course we reached Nobleton, shopped at one of its stores—it's a failing of mine to want to buy something on D.A. day—found courteous service and then sought the very fine Nobleton community hall, where many cars were now discharging their loads, and a goodly company of women gathering. Every year, when I see this large gathering of women, and know it is only one of many taking place all over, I feel the same thrill of gratitude that we women are FREE to thus meet and, unhampered by espionage, discuss, find fault, find remedies, find inspiration and finally return home richer for having garnered new ideas and ideals.

With the president, Mrs. Willis, in the chair, the meeting opened with the singing of "O God our help in ages past," followed by prayer. Then the Institute Ode was sung and the Collect repeated in unison. Mrs. Marchant, the able secretary, then gave the minutes of last year's meeting—this was, as usual, excellent and gave a highlight from each branch's report.

Mrs. Willis then spoke briefly on Institute living. She thought each person should be willing to do what they are best fitted for. She begged the branches to be careful of the means employed to make money—better to give freely than to earn dubiously. She asked if from our homes we are going out men and women who will make the future nation a better one.

Miss Betty Wallace now introduced the Pleasantville Girls' Club, who put on a clever little skit in verse, outlining their home nursing work. Miss Frances Stickwood acted as nurse and the girls asked her what they should do in certain dire emergencies, should they happen in their families. Miss Wallace in her talk also stressed the manner in which the girls were studying health—mental and physical.

They were learning that posture, nutrition, clothing, obeying motor laws, fighting invisible enemies, nursing, and what to do with leisure time—all contribute to bodily and mental health.

We then were treated to a duet by two very young ladies, the little Misses Helen Snyder and Shirley Hill. They played charmingly and the manner in which the owners of black curls and yellow whisked about, changed places and played again, was a treat to behold. Following them came Mrs. Hayes, who by her charming voice, manner, person and ideas, hypnotized us into forgetting time and place.

She said we did not take our Institutes seriously enough. We should be proud of them, boost them, work for them. New members were essential and persistence was the essence of the contract. Go after the same persons month after month and eventually they will see you really want them. When you get them, make them welcome—that was essential; then find out what they are fitted to do, and like to do, and ask them to do it.

We mustn't criticize our officers—we must boost them, and instead of being ready to die for Canada, let us live for her, to the utmost of our strength, ability and mental equipment.

Go to the meetings with a happy face, and you will radiate cheer.

We must suit our menus to war-time conditions, for war always brings epidemics and to frustrate their effects we must build up health resistance.

There must be a definite return to religion and the young must be brought up to know God.

Effectiveness of progress in the world depends on what each one of us puts into it. We must consecrate ourselves to "home and country."

The branch reports were, as usual, splendid, the brief bag going to Roche's Point. One noticed in all reports, the splen-

The drive home, through the lovely countryside, was delightful, and then came home and the telling of the day's doings to the assembled family, while the cats ate peacefully, knowing the family was again united.

IS PROVOST IN R.C.A.F.

Alfred Kirk of Newmarket, son of Mrs. Kirk and the late provincial police sergeant, Tom Kirk, has joined the R.C.A.F. He is stationed with the provost corps at the manning pool, Toronto.

TOM NORRIS IS IN R.C.A.F.

Tom Norris, of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Norris, formerly of Newmarket, has joined the radio technology branch of the R.C.A.F.

JOINS ARMY

John Milligan of Newmarket has joined the infantry branch of the Canadian army.

Mrs. A. Boyd, of Newmarket, made a neat little speech in reply.

Mrs. Maynard of East York spoke on the benefits of Institute intercourse. Miss Styles spoke on mental health—how the mind reacts in fear or joy, to the body, and the care we should take to preserve a true mental attitude. Mrs. Hill played a fine piano solo.

Mrs. Reesor of the federation board spoke on the Highlights of Home and Country, advised the study of the problems of agriculture; suggested a district board go over projects and make a selection.

The convention is to be Nov. 19, 20 and 21. Miss Mary Willis is vocal soloist for one day. Pefferlaw is to be the home of the next district annual.

The nomination committee's report was read by Mrs. P. Hamilton of Newmarket, and, as a result, Mrs. Sinclair of Mount Albert is now district president, Mrs. Willis having retired.

Expressions of appreciation of Mrs. Willis' work were enthusiastically approved by the members and Mrs. Sinclair expressed the hope that she might worthily fill the chair in her term of office. Mrs. Marchant remains as secretary-treasurer. The other appointments are being sent to the branches.

The meeting closed with O Canada, and we left the hall feeling that such a day is inspiring in its mental effect, cheering in its social effect, and productive of a wider outlook all round.

Era printing costs little.

REPEATER TUBES IN ACTION

When you hear a voice coming to you clear and distinct over hundreds of miles of telephone line, then repeater tubes are in action. They keep the voice up to strength, no matter how far it is travelling.

Formerly these repeater tubes required as much electricity as a 15-watt lamp and lasted only a few weeks. Bell Telephone research and manufacture have developed a tube that now does a better job, lasts 20 times as long, consumes 1/5 of the power and costs about a quarter of the older tube.

That's just an example of what research is doing for telephone service—improving it, extending its scope and keeping costs within bounds. Research has made the telephone equal to war-time demands.

Friends and relatives left wishing Mr. Sedore a happy year to come.
SOLDIER SON IS VISITOR
 Mr. and Mrs. Wilnot Briggs are new residents in Newmarket at 16 Timothy St., having moved here recently from Cookstown. Their son, Bob, is with the Canadian army signal corps and is stationed at Vimy Barracks, Kingston. On leave, he visited Newmarket for the first time last week.
 ever, so I was quite pleased to see that one. They usually nest on sandy shores. The spot where I saw him was a flat, pebbly, sandy road.
 "I learned that there's another Plover, the Semipalmated Plover, about the same size, but it is brownish above, like the Killdeer, and with a single, broad and complete, neck ring," the Song Sparrow rambled on.
 Young Chips realized suddenly how long he had been listening. "Gracious, how time does fly, and so must I!" he said abruptly. "My mate will be tearing her feathers in sheer exasperation if I don't turn up soon. Good-bye." He rushed away toward home.
 "I guess I'd better follow his example," the Song Sparrow murmured, as he, too, turned toward his nest.

The Common Round
 DISTRICT ANNUAL
 By Isabel Inglis Colville
 There is a very lovely anticipatory feeling when you wake up on the morning of a day which promises pleasant things.
 My first look, on the morning of June 5th, was at the sky, and although my longing for rain is as keen as anybody's, I confess to a sneaking feeling of relief when the sky looked back at me, unshadowed by clouds.
 Our Institute party, made up of Mrs. Ted. Johnston, Mrs. Fred Reid, Mrs. George Hunt, Mrs. Gordon McClure and I, was driven by Mr. Johnston, who had offered himself as a sacrificial victim on the altar of Institute necessity.
 The morning was one of June in Canada's loveliest — everywhere the green, green land, the song of birds and the flashing glimpse of riotous color, where flowers bloomed.
 I felt impelled to compose a song entitled "The Hills of King," but thought better of it and enjoyed the broadcast of information relating to the country through which we drove, given by two of our party, to whom King spelled childhood's home.
 In due course we reached Nobleton, shopped at one of its stores—it's a falling of mine to want to buy something on D.A. day—found courteous service and then sought the very fine Nobleton community hall, where many cars were now discharging their loads, and a goodly company of women gathering. Every year, when I see this large gathering of women, and know it is only one of many taking place all over, I feel the same thrill of gratitude that we women are FREE to thus meet and, unhampered by espionage, discuss, find fault, find remedies, find inspiration and finally return home richer for having garnered new ideas and ideals.
 With the president, Mrs. Willis, in the chair, the meeting opened with the singing of "O God our help in ages past," followed by prayer. Then the Institute Ode was sung and the Collect repeated in unison. Mrs. Marchant, the able secretary, then gave the minutes of last year's meeting—this was, as usual, excellent and gave a highlight from each branch's report.
 Mrs. Willis then spoke briefly on Institute living. She thought each person should be willing to do what they are best fitted for. She begged the branches to be careful of the means employed to make money—better to give freely than to earn dubiously. She asked if from our homes we are going out men and women who will make the future nation a better one.
 Miss Betty Wallace now introduced the Pleasantville Girls' Club, who put on a clever little skit in verse, outlining their home nursing work. Miss Frances Stickwood acted as nurse and the girls asked her what they should do in certain dire emergencies, should they happen in their families. Miss Wallace in her talk also stressed the manner in which the girls were studying health — mental and physical.
 They were learning that posture, nutrition, clothing, obeying motor laws, fighting invisible enemies, nursing, and what to do with leisure time—all contribute to bodily and mental health.
 We then were treated to a duet by two very young ladies, the little Misses Helen Snyder and Shirley Hill. They played charmingly and the manner in which the owners of black curls and yellow whisked about, changed places and played again, was a treat to behold. Following them came Mrs. Hayes, who by her charming voice, manner, person and ideas, hypnotized us into forgetting time and place.
 She said we did not take our Institutes seriously enough. We should be proud of them, boost them, work for them. New members were essential and persistence was the essence of the contract. Go after the same persons month after month and eventually they will see you really want them. When you get them, make them welcome—that was essential; then find out what they are fitted to do, and like to do, and ask them to do it.
 We mustn't criticize our officers—we must boost them, and instead of being ready to die for Canada, let us live for her, to the utmost of our strength, ability and mental equipment.
 Go to the meetings with a happy face, and you will radiate cheer.
 We must suit our menus to war-time conditions, for war always brings epidemics and to frustrate their effects we must build up health resistance.
 There must be a definite return to religion and the young must be brought up to know God.
 Effectiveness of progress in the world depends on what each one of us puts into it. We must consecrate ourselves to "home and country."
 The branch reports were, as usual, splendid, the brief bag going to Roche's Point. One noticed in all reports, the splen-

The drive home, through the lovely countryside, was delightful, and then came home and the telling of the day's doings to the assembled family, while the cats ate peacefully, knowing the family was again united.

REPEATER TUBES IN ACTION
 When you hear a voice coming to you clear and distinct over hundreds of miles of telephone line, then repeater tubes are in action. They keep the voice up to strength, no matter how far it is travelling.
 Formerly these repeater tubes required as much electricity as a 15-watt lamp and lasted only a few weeks. Bell Telephone research and manufacture have developed a tube that now does a better job, lasts 20 times as long, consumes 1/5 of the power and costs about a quarter of the older tube.
 That's just an example of what research is doing for telephone service — improving it, extending its scope and keeping costs within bounds. Research has made the telephone equal to war-time demands.

POLICE COURT

Fine House-To-Housers
Not Having Registration

Fleeting guilty in police court on Tuesday to a charge of careless driving, Wentworth Hughson, Slingshampton, was fined $25 and costs or ten days.

"On Saturday, May 31, as a result of information received, I stopped a car in Aurora at 10 p.m.," Constable Aubrey Fleury told Magistrate J. C. M. German. "I noticed the truck was going slowly." The officer said that he stopped the truck and took it away from the driver. He then handed the defendant over to Provincial Constable Alex. Ferguson.

"Why did you take it away?" asked Crown Attorney N. L. Mathews, K.C.

"It was all over the road, it was going about ten or 15 miles an hour, weaving from one side of the road to the other," replied the officer. He stated that there was a great deal of traffic on the highway.

Dr. C. J. Devins, Aurora, stated that he smelled alcohol on the defendant's breath and that the latter told him that he had had two glasses of beer at four o'clock, two more at six, and a small bottle of beer with his supper at his sister's house. The doctor said that he could not say that the defendant was under the influence of liquor, as his reflexes and the co-ordination of his body were good. He was also quick enough to answer questions. He said that the fact that the defendant had been driving some distance might have helped to cause some drowsiness.

Asked if he thought the defendant was in any condition to drive a truck, Constable Ferguson stated that he did not think so.

Chester Schwandt, Slingshampton,

owner of the truck driven by Wentworth Hughson, was fined $1 and costs for not having his name painted on his truck. Constable Alex. Ferguson testified that he observed the truck on May 31, on Yonge St. and that the name was printed in chalk and impossible to read. Mr. Schwandt, who pleaded not guilty to the offence, told his witness that he had had the truck painted and had put his name on it in chalk until the following Saturday, when he intended to have it painted on. The rain had made it illegible, he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Macartney, Toronto, were each given a suspended sentence on payment of costs of court. Each was charged with failing to show a registration certificate at the request of an officer.

Constable Kenneth Mount testified that on May 20 both Mr. and Mrs. Macartney were in Newmarket, soliciting orders for cleaning furnaces. They did not have their certificates with them and promised to bring them into his office on the following day when they were passing on their way to Barrie. This they did not do, the constable said.

Mr. Macartney told his witness that his certificate had been in his coat pocket, which he had left in a friend's car. His friend had driven the car away and the defendant could not find him. He said that he did not return the following day because a friend who had promised them a ride to Barrie did not call for them.

Fleeting guilty to catching trout illegally on March 31, George Shearer, Beaverton, was fined $10 and costs and was given 30 days in which to pay. Constable Ernest Prosser testified that he came across the defendant near Pefferlaw in Georgian township with 18 fish in his car. He said that the trout bore marks of having been caught with a spear.

Mr. Shearer told his witness that he had been ill for some time and unable to work. He had to support a family of six.

"You could go to jail for this, you know," Magistrate German told Elgin Miller, R. R. 1, Queensville. The latter was charged with stealing a horse, the property of Bruce MacMillan, North Gwillimbury.

Wellington McKinnon, who is employed by Mr. MacMillan, testified that on June 14, after completing his chores, he fed and bedded the horse, leaving it in a stall for the night. He closed the barn door but did not lock it. He said that when he went to the barn the following morning the door was wide open and the horse gone. A bride was also missing.

Asked about the condition of the horse when returned later, the witness said that it "was breathing quite hard and pretty well stiffened up."

Mr. MacMillan told his witness that he had received a phone call about the horse and went to the farm of Ross Mahoney, where he found the animal tied to a post. He said that Mr. Mahoney told him that he had seen the loose horse on the highway in a way of traffic. Motorists were blowing their horns to try to get it out of the way. The witness stated that Mr. Mahoney caught the animal and took it to his place.

Asked what value he placed on the horse, Mr. MacMillan stated that it was worth $150.

"Did you see the accused?" asked the crown.

"Yes, I went with Constable Jardine to Clarence Wright's farm, where the defendant works. I asked Mr. Miller about the horse but he would not admit anything. I asked him if he left the horse at the foot of the hill and he said 'yes.'"

In answer to further questions of the crown, the witness stated that the horse, wandering about the highway, was in danger of being run over or might cause a great deal of trouble.

Constable Joseph Jardine, who accompanied Mr. MacMillan to the Wright farm, testified that "the accused didn't say much" when he questioned him. The officer said that later when he went to serve the defendant, the latter told him that "he had been to Sutton the night before and had had some drinks."

Asked how much he was earning each month, the defendant said that he was getting $40 and board. "I am not going to send you to jail," stated the magistrate. "I am going to fine you and by that fine you'll know that you shouldn't do it again. I am fining you $10 and costs of $18.50. I am giving you a week in which to pay and if you do not pay in that time you will go to jail for 20 days."

For obstructing the bailiff, Peter Trivett, when he went to his premises to make a seizure of a truck as he was instructed to do by the fourth division court of York county, John Gasko, 3rd concession of King township (Holland Marsh settlement), was given a suspended sentence on payment of costs amounting to $14.50. He was given a week in which to pay the fine.

According to the testimony of Mr. Trivett, who is 80 years old and has worked as bailiff for a great many years, he had gone to the defendant's farm on several occasions to see if he could get a settlement with him for a debt he owed.

"On June 12, I went out in a car intending to seize the truck owned by the accused," stated Mr. Trivett. "He wouldn't give me the key."

The witness stated that he then hired the tow truck of Fildey and Gordon and went to the property of the defendant to tow the truck away.

"Mr. Gasko refused to let us tow it away," Mr. Trivett said. "He got in front of me and wouldn't let me put the chain on the truck." The witness added that another man came to the defendant's aid. He then laid the charge against Mr. Gasko.

"I went to put the chain on the truck for the purpose of towing it away," testified Norman J. Young, driver of the tow truck. "The accused pushed me away and said not to put it on. Another man with a hoe came running across the field."

In his defence Mr. Gasko told his witness that he needed the truck in order to sell vegetables. He had since paid the money that he owed.

Asked what country he came from, the defendant told his witness that he came from Yugoslavia 11 years ago.

"You should have known better," commented Magistrate German. "I want you to understand this, that in this country a man must pay his debts and when he does not pay the debt the officers of the law can seize his property. You owed a debt and you did not pay and therefore the bailiff was instructed to take your car."

"I want you and all the people in your district to realize this, that our laws are not hard. They are not as hard as those in some countries in Europe. You refused to let the officer take your truck. You are liable to a fine of $100 and costs or a jail sentence."

The crown advised that this was the defendant's first offence. "He must be in bad circumstances or he would not have gotten into this trouble," he stated.

"I am giving you a suspended sentence on payment of costs of $14.50," his witness told Mr. Gasko. "That means that the next time you will go to jail. If you are in doubt about the law again consult the crown attorney or the police."

Speeding charges again predominated in police court on Tuesday when Magistrate German heard 21 cases.

Motorists fined by Provincial Constable Alex. Ferguson on the Bradford flats were: Phillip Magi and Dale McCoy, both of Toronto. The former was fined $15 and costs for driving 70 miles an hour, and the latter was fined $10 and costs for driving at 65 miles an hour.

Toronto motorists speeding on the highway to Lake Simcoe were: Harvey Smith, fined $25 and costs for travelling at 80 miles an hour, and D. Gieseler, Canada Ltd., fined $10 and costs.

Constable Jos. Jardine told his witness that he followed the Smith car as it left the northern limits of Sharon through to the northern limits of Queensville.

Three motorists were fined $5 and costs for driving over 40 miles an hour on the same highway. They were: C. H. Robertson and Basil A. Magaffin, both of Toronto, and Phillip Brichta, Sutton West.

For travelling between 58 and 60 miles an hour, Ward and Son, Toronto, were fined $10 and costs. Constable Ronald Watt testified that he followed the car for a mile and heavy traffic prevented him from stopping the defendant's car.

Four drivers travelling through Aurora were each fined $3 and Fashion Show.

By GOLDEN GLOW

A unique feature in connection with the annual exhibition of the work of the manual training and domestic science departments of our public schools was a fashion show put on by Miss Evelyn Denne and Miss Hazel Hambly last Friday evening at the Stuart Scott school. The show had to be staged several times to accommodate the crowds that flocked to this popular annual event. The costumes the school-girls modelled were made by themselves, and the whole event demonstrates, in the first place, the executive skill of the two instructresses, and, in the second place, the ability of the classes to learn, and the talent displayed in the putting on of the splendid show.

The narrator gave in delightful poetry the plan of procedure, which was, in brief, a school-girl's day from the time she arose in the morning till after tea, while to soft music, supplied by a gramophone, the girls, with complete composure and poise, came quietly in, stepped up on the stage, which had been erected in one of the classrooms, and very prettily and daintily modelled the appropriate costume for that hour. The hour, by the way, was indicated on a miniature grandfather's clock!

We were then invited to sample a further proof of their domestic ability in a cup of tea with delicious small cakes served in the domestic science room. Round the walls were displayed many splendid garments, which are to be sent to the refugee children of Great Britain. There were also samples of other domestic arts, besides some interesting posters for the Red Cross work.

In the art department, conducted by Miss Florence Staunton, there were splendid exhibits of painting and drawing—pictures covering the four walls, delightful ones, I assure you. The crowd was so interested that it was hard to see all the exhibits—but one was especially interesting, and that was the bowls and baskets of imitation fruit and vegetables, modelled out of newspapers and water-colors. They called it "papier-mache," and everybody thought it wonderfully clever.

Then the boys' department, under Mr. Purdy and Mr. Melbourne! Such an array of beautifully finished articles! Each year they add some new feature to the list of things made by the boys in the manual training classes. This year in the more advanced classes they had the silent valet, magazine holders, little book-cases and book-ends, electric stand lamps, jardiniere stands, corner book-cases, medicine cabinets and sock-driers, while in other grades were the usual things that I've told about other years, and, as always, the delightful bird-houses and the cut-out garden ornaments, in an endless variety of birds, rabbits, cats and dogs—and, oh yes, ducks.

I know I am omitting some of the special things, but I did not take any notes, indeed there is no chance for you meet one friend after another, and you have to keep moving with the crowd. But one thing I did particularly notice, for no doubt many mothers will be using this one out on the verandah this summer when they sit down to do the family mending. It consists of a cut-out man with outstretched arms, with pegs for hands to hold spools of thread, and the peg on top of his head is for mother's thimble, with a rounded place at his feet to make into a pin-cushion.

I haven't forgotten the miniature model village just inside the front door, on a wide table, complete to the last detail. It even had two strings of colored lights outlining Main St. There was the miniature station beside the railroad track, with a tiny bag of flour on a two-wheeled barrow. There was a motor getting filled up with gas at a service station. There was a radio receiving station and airplanes, one even had landed on the flat roof of one of the miniature houses. The roads were gray paper to represent cement, the houses were of varied architecture, gaily trimmed with paint. A mirror even simulated Fairy Lake. It was well planned and well carried out and must have meant hours of concentrated work. It was a very clever demonstration, and I know I haven't done it justice.

Then there was a booth in the entrance hall full of beautiful bouquets of flowers, which were auctioned off by Donald Davis at the close of the evening—and believe me, he made a good auctioneer! The door to the room where the fashion show was held was outlined in flowering syringa branches, Oriental poppies and lemon lilies, which made a pleasing arch under which the girls passed to the stage. There were flowers everywhere.

Captain Dr. J. C. R. Edwards of the Newmarket military camp and Mrs. Edwards, who donated the prizes, the silver cups and the beautiful covered shield, presented them at the close of the evening amid a ring of smiling faces.

The event has become one of the most popular evenings of the year in our town, for not only do parents of children participating attend, but many others, who in years past used to go to see what their children did in comparison with the other children in manual training and domestic science classes.

Everybody was particularly pleased with the fashion show arranged by Miss Denne and Miss Hambly.

The high school students are now in the throes of exam time, and what a time that is. With many students away, the school seems deserted to the student who climbs the long hill to try the finals and he feels that he is definitely on his own, but definitely. The pals of his school year are scattered, some in different rooms, some writing different exams. The only consolation he gets comes from the realization that the summer holidays, oh those summer holidays, are not far away. Oh pity, pity me, he says.

A newspaper advertisement: "Lost—a lead pencil by Mary Smith, blonde, blue eyes, five feet two, fond of dancing. Finder call Woodland 1465 after six o'clock."

I've just found out how drastic are the changes in the language of some U. S. debutantes from year to year. A magazine story says that a debutante of this year, in speaking to debutantes of two and three years ago, "announced that the night before she had been booging at a rat race with a hammerhead and had had to send up flares all evening." One of the former debutantes finally found out that she meant "that she had been to a dance with a poor specimen and had had to signal the other stoooges to cut in." The debutante telling the story said that she could have simply said that "she had been out stepping at a hop with a goop and had to flash an S.O.S."

Monday night's hardball encounter between Davis Leather and the Town was the best of the season so far. The Town was minus some of its players through sickness, etc., but put up an interesting tussle all the way. "Shorty" Turan was beamed by one of Hoeff's pitches and managed to hear one or two "birdies" before he got up from the ground.

Manager "Baz" McHale of the Town squad put himself in as a pinch-hitter in the last inning. He hit the ball all right and, if he had had ten years off his legs, could have made the first bag. However, it wasn't to be, and "Baz" was out. The leathermen won 4-3.

One Newmarket dance place has closed up for the summer season. Those who take pleasure in fancy foot-work will take to the cool lake places during the summer.

The umpires certainly took a beating at Monday night's hardball game. None of their decisions pleased more than half the fans at one time and it was a continual, "Why don't you wear glasses, ump," all night long. Still that's what adds spice to a ball game and the umpires are usually sports enough to take it.

MOUNT PLEASANT

Breaks Several Ribs
In Fall From Scaffold

The heavy rain of the last few days was badly needed as the hay crop had not grown very tall owing to dry weather. Many are cutting hay this week.

The school picnic at Island Grove last Friday was well attended by this district and all report a good time.

E. Miller accidentally fell off a scaffold, severing several ribs from the spine, while working on the Harmon farm on the 6th concession, near the baseline, recently.

A large number attended the Ladies' Aid supper last week at Mrs. Robt. Davidson's.

Mr. Martin Stiles, Sr., has been visiting his brother, Mr. Robt. Stiles, and other relatives. Mrs. J. Ash of Gormley, her brother, and son, had dinner with Mrs. E. Yorke last Thursday and called on other relatives. They also attended the Ladies' Aid tea at Mr. Robt. Davidson's.

Rifleman Harry Davis of Toronto spent the weekend at the home of Mr. Robt. Davidson, where his wife and son spent the last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morton and children of Queensville spent Sunday at the home of Mr. Bernard Davidson.

The Young People's meeting will be held at the home of John Hopkins on Friday, June 20, at 8 p.m.

HONOR SHARON LADY
AT W.A. CONFERENCE

The members of St. Paul's W. A. attended the 22nd annual conference of the Woman's Auxiliary of West York, held this year in Christ church, Woodbridge, on Thursday of last week. The morning session commenced with a celebration of holy communion, with an address by Rev. F. G. Powell of St. James' church, Sutton.

In the afternoon addresses were given by Miss F. C. Kingston, diocesan treasurer, and Mrs. W. H. White, wife of Bishop White, who spent so many years of service in China. Mrs. White brought with her several Japanese and Chinese native costumes, which were modelled by some of the young women of the church. Mrs. White is expected to come to Newmarket next fall to give the local branch an address and bring more native costumes.

A particularly pleasing and interesting interlude occurred at the afternoon session when the deanery officer, Mrs. Austin Haines, of Sharon, was made a life member of the Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary. Mrs. Haines was taken completely by surprise when Mrs. A. J. Patstone stepped forward and asked permission to speak. Then, while Mrs. T. C. Watson pinned on the gold emblem (the W.A. pin in the shape of a Winchester cross), Mrs. Patstone conducted the ceremony of creating Mrs. Haines a life member and presented her with the framed illuminated certificate of life membership.

Mrs. Haines has given many years of faithful service to the work of the W.A., and her fellow members in the deanery were delighted to bestow on her the honor of life membership. Mrs. Haines, though deeply touched, responded in her usual pleasant way and declared that the work in connection with her office had been a very great pleasure.

Mrs. Haines was elected deanery officer for the coming year, and a member of Newmarket branch, Mrs. Norman MacLeod, secretary-treasurer. Next year the conference will be held at St. John's church, Oak Ridges.

ATTENDS CONVENTION

Mrs. Thos. Watson, president of the local W.L., was among those attending the 34th W.L. convention held at Nobleton on June 5.

of Toronto spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kitching.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Rowe and daughter of Toronto visited Mr. Chas. Rowe on Friday.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. Ross Stephenson, who was married on Saturday in Toronto. The bride was the former Mabel Hutchison of Toronto. The happy couple will reside in the village.

VIVIAN

Y. P. S. PLANS OPEN
AIR WORK FOR SUMMER

The Young People's meeting on Wednesday evening, June 11, was presided over by Earl Grose. Garfield Brown led in the singing of some choruses, after which prayer was offered by Frank Allin.

A scripture contest conducted by the president was enjoyed by all and the message of the evening was brought by Ed. Blair, who spoke from Luke 12: 20.

The meeting was closed with the singing of a hymn and prayer by the president.

The young people are planning to join with the young people of Mount Albert Gospel church in open air work during the summer.

Quite a number attended the prayer meeting on Friday evening. The meeting will be held in the church this week.

Mr. Rowan spoke to quite a large congregation on Sunday evening on "Living for Jesus."

A message in song was brought by Mrs. Rowan.

Next Sunday evening Mr. Rowan plans to have a special message for parents, and all parents are specially invited to attend.

Mr. Lee is out again after several weeks illness. Everyone was pleased to see the rain these last few days as it was much needed in this locality.

G. W. McCormack is having his house re-shingled.

EAST GWILLIMBURY WILL HOLD TEA AT HOME OF MRS. WAGG

The Mount Albert unit of the Red Cross will hold a garden tea at the home of Mrs. Edmund Wagg and Mrs. Roy Stewart, Mount Albert, on Saturday afternoon and evening, June 21. The garden is very beautiful all summer but just now the peony blooms are magnificent. Plan to spend an hour on Saturday on these lovely grounds. Tea will be served from three o'clock.

On Friday evening a general meeting of East Gwillimbury Red Cross will be held in Sharon hall at 7.30 P.M. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the advisability of holding a garden party, and fill two vacancies which have occurred on the executive.

Mrs. R. J. Rogers was hostess to a successful tea last Tuesday. About 150 guests called during the afternoon. The Red Cross society is very grateful to the ladies who have so generously given their homes for the events from which a large part of much-needed funds is raised.

Seventeen answers to last week's contest were entirely correct and several more had only one or two mistakes. Here are the correct answers, as intended by the puzzle editor (in several cases there were alternative correct answers given by contestants): for general, bed-sitting room, six-room apartment, capable woman, housework or house, teacher, springs or binder in good, Aurora return, the market.

This week's winners are: Miss E. R. Patterson, Mrs. H. Longfield, Mrs. F. W. Cass and Mrs. Arnold Molyneux, all of Newmarket, and Mrs. Clifford Gordon, Queensville.

They win double passes to the Strand theatre for next Wednesday, June 25, or next Friday, June 27, and may obtain them any evening at the theatre.

Five double passes will be given to winners of this week's contest. These passes will be for Monday, June 30, to see Wallace Beery in "Bad Man" and Bonnie Baker, Orrin Tucker and his orchestra in "You're the One" or for Thursday, July 3, to see Norma Shearer and Robert Taylor in "Escape" and "Jane Steps Out," a new British comedy hit, with Diana Churchill.

Answers must reach The Era by next Tuesday morning at 9:30 D.S.T. Winners will be drawn if there are more than five who send in correct answers.

SOLDIERS AND VISITORS WELCOME

NORTHERN LIGHTS ARE MAGNIFICENT SIGHT

Golden Glow says that, thanks to a kind friend who called on the phone, she saw the wonderful northern lights (if it was the Aurora Borealis), on Tuesday night between 11 o'clock and half-past.

It was a luminous arch of light, making a complete semicircle from the north-west to the south-east, right over the town. To see the northern lights properly, one must stand in the complete shadow of a building and shut out all light. If it had only been during the blackout in Toronto last night many surely would have seen the magnificent spectacle.

ASKS BIBLE STUDY ON SCHOOL CURRICULUM

The 116th annual sessions of the conference of Congregational-Christian churches of Ontario were held in the Newmarket Christian church from Wednesday, June 11, until Sunday, June 15.

Principal speakers were Rev. W. W. Schumaker, representing the New York Congregational conference, Dr. Armstrong of Toronto, and Dr. Geo. W. Shepherd of Chicago.

Dr. Shepherd is a personal advisor of Gen. Chiang-Kai-Shek and told of the high Christian principles of the great Chinese leader, the resultant vigorous leadership being given the "New Life Movement" in China, and of the Christian example being set by the general to his people.

The following were elected: president, Rev. Arthur Greer, Newmarket; vice-president, Rev. Chas. H. Way, Toronto; clerk, Rev. Gibson W. Brown, Stouffville; treasurer, E. B. Hoover, Toronto.

A report on social and moral reform was given by Cyril Ware of Toronto.

"When we speak of 'reform' let us think of it in the sense of returning to that better state from which we have departed," said Mr. Ware.

"The foundation of any social or moral reform must be the Holy Bible, God's written revelation of His will for man."

"It would be a waste of time and energy to seek the assistance of our politicians, who, with very few exceptions, are actuated by self interest. Nor do I expect much more from the average adult, whose chief pursuit seems to be for the so-called pleasures of our time. Where then shall we begin?"

"The answer is plain: we must begin with the young, who were ever dear to our Saviour."

"Therefore, I suggest two reforms: the first, that a half-hour of Bible study be added to the curriculum of our public and high schools, so that our children shall acquire a thorough knowledge of God's word. By this I do not mean that the teacher shall impose upon his pupils his own interpretations or expound his own doctrinal beliefs, but that a portion shall be read each day and passages, more particularly those dealing with God's way of life, shall be committed to memory."

"The second reform is that only men and women who have experienced the rebirth and whose lives have been dedicated to God's service shall be permitted to teach in our Sunday schools."

"The movies, the comics and radio programs will lose nothing of their interest when cleansed of their impurities."

"Satan has long held sway—he must be ousted from his exalted position by Christians, who putting on the whole armor of God, go forth and fight until Christ has been placed at the head of all human endeavor."

Leather Scintillates Town Too But Too Late

By JACK PEPIATT
A smashing two-base hit by Cliff Gunn, that knocked in two runs, accounted for a 4-3 win for Davis Leather over the Town in a scintillating hardball contest on Monday night. Rivalry between the two teams was keen all the way and the old principle of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth held sway.

It was a pitcher's duel and Fred Lusted pitched the steadier game. Hoeft, the Town moundsman, allowed seven hits and eight bases on balls, while Lusted allowed only three hits and walked only two men. It was one of the best pitching efforts of the season.

Both teams scored one run in the first inning, "Hawk" Haskett getting the tannery run and Jack Drury the Town counter. Haskett and Turan scored in the sixth for the tannery, and Brown in the first half of the seventh.

In an effort to set a rally in motion, Manager Bas. McFale of the Town team sent Mickey Smith in as a pinch-hitter in the last of the seventh and Mickey smashed out a corking two-bagger to centre field. Pike singled and was thrown out at second base after Drury singled. Smith came in and Drury later scored to make the game 4-3. However, Chatham, last man up, fanned with Cain on base and Davis Leather clinched the game.

"Shorty" Turan was nearly knocked cold when hit with the ball by Hoeft while attempting to steal third. But he got up and continued the game.

The Davis Leather hardball squad administered a shelling to the Office Specialty in a game at the Stuart Scott grounds last Thursday night. When the officemen came up from under the blitz and counted their losses, they were on the short end of a 12-4 score.

Four runs in the first, three in the second, two in the fourth and three in the fifth were sent across by Davis Leather. The Office Specialty got two in the first, one in the second and one in the fourth.

Bob Peters, pitching for Davis Leather, also got the first home run of the season. Johnny Vanden Bergh was on the O. S. mound and yielded ten hits while Peters allowed seven hits.

"Hawk" Haskett got four runs and two hits for a busy evening. Peters got two and two.

hotel, Toronto. Friday's events include a military aeroplane display in the morning and in the evening the official opening and inaugural ball.

A full program on Saturday includes a big patriotic rally at the Maple Leaf gardens in the evening.

The Sunday events, which, it is expected, the local veterans will be attending, at least in part, include church services in the morning, a drumhead service and international broadcast in the afternoon at Riverdale Park, a combined symphony and choir concert in the evening and an international goodbye goodwill service at midnight at exhibition park.

NEWMARKET STRIKES WATER BONANZA

NEWMARKET WELL IS PUBLICIZED ABROAD

An article appearing in the June 4 issue of the magazine, Engineering and Contract Record, a Canadian magazine for engineers, describes the sinking of a deep well on Cotter St., Newmarket, where an all-electric rotary drill, one of the first to be used in Canada in well drilling, is being used.

With the story is the following information concerning C. C. Rachar, superintendent of the town water and light department.

"With 25 years of practical experience in electrical and waterworks engineering, C. C. Rachar in 1938 was appointed electrical superintendent for the corporation of Newmarket, and in 1940 took over the additional duties of waterworks superintendent occasioned by the retirement of William O'Halloran, who had filled the latter position for over 50 years.

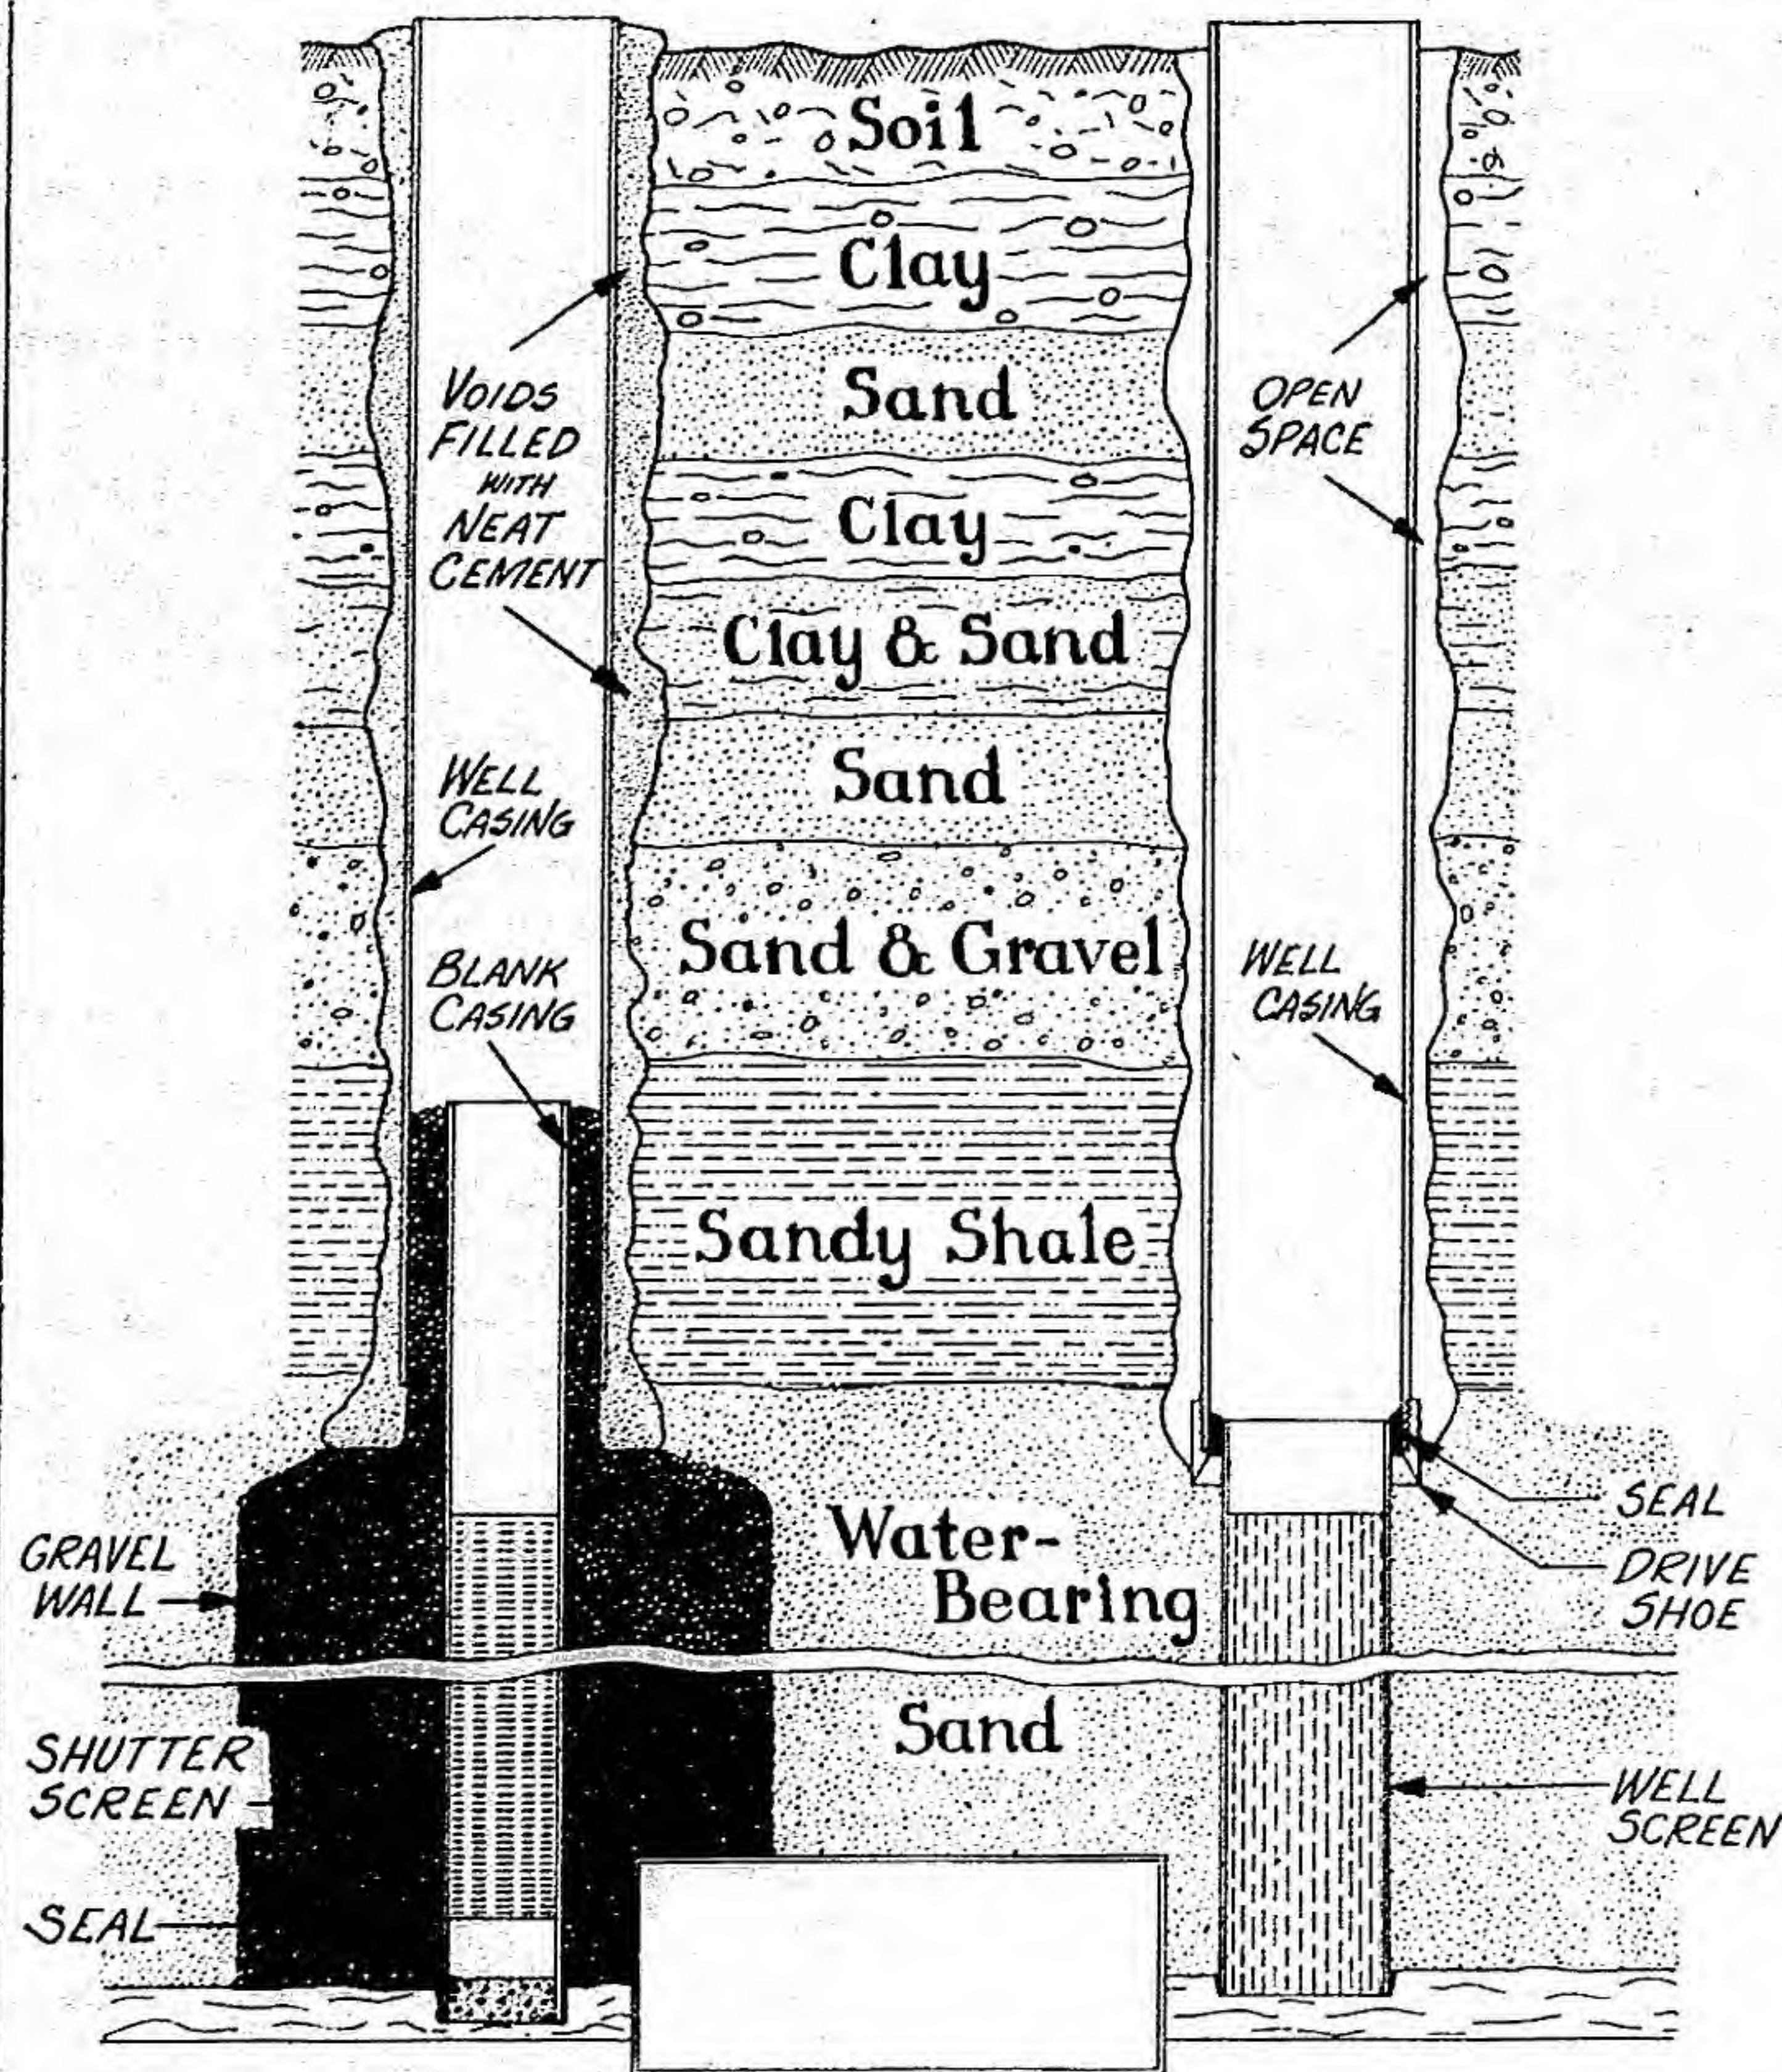

"Since his appointment to these dual offices, Mr. Rachar has accomplished a number of improvements in the electrical equipment under his charge, following a complete survey of the power services in town. His duties and responsibilities in connection with the water supply will be materially increased with the addition of the new well which has been described in this article.

"Born in Mount Forest, Ont., and spending the greater part of his life in the southern part of Ontario, he has held positions of responsibility in a number of important industrial plants, where he acquired his technical knowledge. He is a member of the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario and of the Canadian section of the American Water Works Association."

FORMER RESIDENT HERE DIES IN TORONTO AT 48

Mrs. Philip Clouth, wife of a former Newmarket merchant, died in Toronto on June 8 in her 48th year, following a lengthy illness.

For six years, Mr. and Mrs. Clouth conducted a dry goods business in the premises now occupied by Capital Cleaners and Sedor's Meat Market. They moved to Toronto about 20 years ago.

The diagram on the left illustrates the construction of the well described in this article. The under-reamed chamber for the gravel wall increases the area for the flow of ground water into the well, and the enlarged wall of graded gravel permits this water to flow readily into the shutter screen.

By sealing the space between the outer well casing and the sides of the drill hole with cement, the danger of contamination from surface water is greatly lessened.

On the right the diagram represents a type of well that could become easily contaminated and water supply lowered by clogging of the screen openings.

NEWMARKET INCREASES WATER SUPPLY WITH ADDITIONAL DEEP WELL

(FROM "ENGINEERING")

An all-electric rotary drill, one of the first to be used in Canada in well drilling, is at present operating at Newmarket, Ontario, sinking a 20 in. boring for an additional well water supply for the municipality. This large capacity electric drill is being used in place of the conventional steam and gasoline powered drills for flexibility of operation and for economy. Taking advantage of the fact that the municipality purchases its electric power on a demand basis, this unit can be operated at off-peak periods of power consumption, thereby creating a substantial saving for the municipality. Usually a suitable power main is close at hand within the municipal boundaries wherever this machine is likely to operate, or at best, a lead-in connection can be run to the site which will later be used as the permanent supply line for the pumping station built over the well. In this instance, the power supply line was in close proximity to the work.

The town of Newmarket is a thriving industrial community located 30 miles due north from Toronto, with a population of nearly 4,000. Three industrial plants are located in the vicinity which require large quantities of water for domestic and process use. The number of domestic services total 1,100. The addition of a military training centre and recent activity in residential building has increased the daily water consumption from 195,000 gals. to 300,000 gals., so that it has become imperative to establish a further source of supply, not only for domestic and industrial needs, but also for fire protection.

Present Sources

In making the decision to install an additional well, the municipal council reviewed the potentialities of the existing system. The only feasible source of supply is through wells, and the town now has a number of these in operation. At the Water Street location three wells in close proximity to each other give a combined discharge of 100,000 gpd., the water being pumped by air lift into a surface reservoir nearby. The iron content in this water is partially removed by oxidation from the air used in pumping and ventilation of the reservoir, but the amount remaining in the water is still found to be objectionable. A flowing well on Cotter Street, located on the opposite bank of the stream flowing through the town, supplies a further 45,000 gpd., and this water is pumped to the same reservoir. The Srigley Street well which was added six years ago has a capacity of 150,000 gpd., the water from which, after treatment for iron removal, is pumped directly into the distribution system.

The new well which is now being drilled is located on Cotter Street, and when brought into production, will probably reduce the flow from the first mentioned well on the same street. The capacity is expected to reach 280,000 gpd. The method of connection of the discharge from this well has not yet been decided until a study has been made of the analysis of the water that is produced. If high in iron content, further treatment for its removal will be necessary. The choice of location for a treatment plant has not yet been made.

Drilling Methods

The operation that is proceeding in drilling the new well presents a new departure in this field of water well drilling, and is an adaptation of the system used in the drilling for oil wells. The well will be of the under-reamed, gravel wall type, with an outer casing of 14 in., and 8 in. inner suction pipe. Over 200 ft. of the estimated total depth of 250 ft. of the 20 in. boring has now been completed. The drill at this depth is passing through a stratum heavy with boulders, which, because of the necessity of grinding them up, pushing them aside, or fishing them out with special tools, has slowed up the earlier rapid progress. The entire depth of the well will be drilled without any of the outer 14 in. lining being set in the shaft. The unprotected walls are held from caving or slumping by keeping the excavated hole filled with a liquid mud or slurry that is kept flowing by an 800 gpm electric pump, which, however, only pumps half this capacity of mud. From preliminary tests and from past experience, the density of this liquid is determined so that a hydraulic pressure is maintained on the walls of the boring and counteracts any tendency of the walls breaking away. The mud is pumped down through the hollow drill shafting, passing out through orifices in the cutting tool, and then flows to the surface of the well, carrying along the drill cuttings. The overflow of this liquid is run to an excavated pond alongside the drill apparatus, where the ponding allows the heavier cuttings to settle out, and is then ready for a return trip through the circuit.

Cement Outer Casing

When the rotary drill reaches the water-bearing stratum, the drill will be withdrawn, and the outer 14 in. welded steel casing inserted in the 20 in. hole. Steel fins are welded on the outside face of the pipe at intervals to retain the pipe in the centre of the boring, so that the space between the pipe and the walls of the well is kept uniform. Neat cement will then be pumped down the casing through the liquid mud and forced up between the pipe and the drill hole until all the space about the casing has been completely filled from the bottom to the top at the surface, encasing the pipe in an unbroken cement wall. In this method, not only is the common danger eliminated of the casing becoming perforated by corrosion, but the possibility of contamination to the water supply is materially reduced.

With the outer casing permanently in place, the operation of under-reaming for the gravel wall will be undertaken. This is carried out by a specially designed hydraulic expanding bit which is attached to the bottom of the drill rods. It is an elongated barrel enclosing two movable steel fins. When this bit has been lowered below the bottom of the casing and rotation started, these fins expand out from the axis of the bit by hydraulic pressure produced by the surface pumps, and begin cutting out the larger chamber which will form the gravel wall. The cut material is brought to the surface by the liquid mud circulation and treated in the same way as has already been described. On completion of the under-reaming, the well is ready for the insertion of the shutter screen barrel, which is lowered into place attached to and followed up by the eight in. inner lining pipe. The bottom of the screen is sealed off by a layer of neat cement.

Gravel Wall

A special hydraulic device is used to place the gravel which is poured down the enlarged gravel wall chamber in the annular space between the inner and outer well casings. Cape May gravel is used exclusively, as it can be obtained in a state graded to any specified size, and is a well-rounded pure silica sand. When completed the screen is entirely surrounded with a gravel wall of uniform thickness. There are no thin spots where the fine sand can filter through to gradually form a cavity and finally result in a collapse of the overburden.

The remaining work to be done to complete the well is the removal of the eight in. inner lining pipe which will be replaced by mechanical parts of the vertical turbine pump to be attached immediately above the shutter screen.

The work on the Newmarket water supply well is being undertaken by the International Water Supply Limited, of London, Ont., by contract with the municipality for the well drilling and supply of the pump, pipe casing and accessories. Mr. T. L. McManama of this firm is supervising the work.

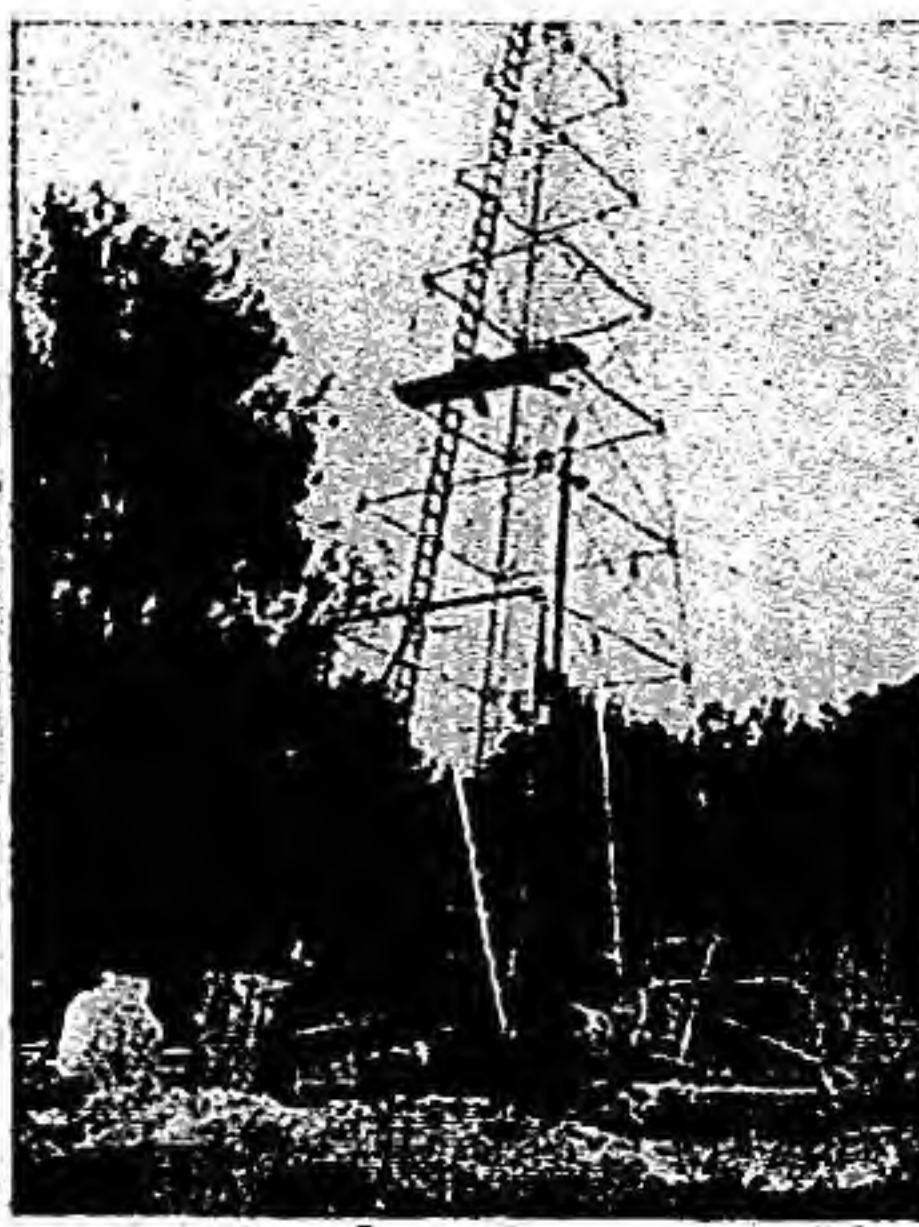

In charge of maintenance and operation of the water distribution system of the municipality is C. C. Rachar, superintendent of the Water and Light department of the Corporation of Newmarket.

Well drilling at Newmarket. On the left is shown the electric rotary drill set up on the platform over the well hole. All operations of drilling, hoisting and pumping are done by electric drive. On the right the operators are unclamping the head on the drilling shaft preparatory to adding a 26-ft. length of drill rod.

A general view of the well drilling equipment in use at Newmarket which is similar to that used in deep oil well work. The tubular steel tower is demountable and can be erected to any required height.

The pond of liquid mud is shown in the foreground with the suction pipe at the right. The electric pump circulates the mud in the drill hole, and the overflow returns to the pond where the drill cuttings brought up by the liquid are allowed to settle out. A constant check is made of the level of the pond and the consistency of the liquid.

Water Flows Up At Rate Of 750 Gals. A Minute At Cotter

New Well Has Tremendous Flow Of Clear Water, And It's Right On The Spot

"Newmarket Increases Water Supply with Additional Deep Well," is the title of the accompanying article reprinted from "Engineering" for June, 1941. The pictures are used through the courtesy of "Engineering", Toronto, a Hugh C. Maclean publication.

The article tells of the attempt to secure 200 gallons of water a minute at the site of the run-down Cotter St. well.

Since the article was written a major flow of 750 to 800 gallons a minute has been discovered. It is predicted that this will be stabilized at 500 gallons a minute.

So much water hasn't been seen in Newmarket for a long time. The water seems pure and clear and is pleasant to taste.

Best of all, the water is right there at the waterworks, making unnecessary any new pumping equipment or the laying of long mains.

If it weren't for the war, Newmarket citizens would be talking of nothing else but this new well. It is the biggest thing that has happened to the "cor-poration" for a long time.

KETTLEBY GARDEN PARTY WILL BE HELD ON JUNE 26

Republic has purchased the rights to the popular song hit,
"Sierra Sue," for the title of Gene Autry's next singing western at that studio.

It has been suggested that an award of some sort should be given to Private Kenneth Wilkinson of Camp Lewis (U. S. army), who last week celebrated seven months five days soldiering for Uncle Sam by seeing the 250th full-length feature picture
since last October.

Rita Hayworth, the new oomph girl, who is featured in "Blood and Sand" (to be shown soon locally), will be co-starred with Fred Astaire in "You'll Never Get Rich," a new comedy now in production at Columbia.

Veronica Lake, the discovery of Paramount's "I Wanted Wings," will retire from the screen for several months after she has completed work in "Sullivan's Travels," to await the stork expected in early fall.

Business may be bad for the picture houses but not for Hollywood Park. The first 15 days of the present race meet found business up about 25 percent and they didn't run "bank nife," give away dishes or resort to double bills.

Paramount has purchased a new comedy drama, entitled "Snowball in Hell," which will co-star Bob Hope and Madeleine Carroll. It is scheduled to go before the cameras immediately after Bob has finished "Nothing but the Truth," in which he is teamed with Paulette Goddard.

Stirling Hayden, the discovery of "Virginia," will be seen with Madeleine Carroll in two pictures next year, "Bahama Passage" and "Tomorrow's Admirals."

Howard Dietz, M.G.M. director of advertising and exploitation,
will produce the air show,
"Millions for Defence" for the U.S. treasury department. Secretary Morgenthau will introduce the first program on July 2.
This program will bring to the air such stars as Fred Allen, Mickey Rooney, Judy Garland and Charles Laughton, who no doubt will be followed by many other Hollywood notables of the screen.

George Burns and Gracie
Allen are on a tour of army camps in search of Gracie's long lost brother.

We will have to watch for "Panama Hat," which goes before the cameras soon at Culver City (M.G.M. studios). This will bring to the screen Red Skelton in the company of one,
Rags Raglan, who no doubt is a stranger to you, but we remember that not so long ago he was seen in burlesque, ah but, of course, so were Abbott and Costello, the boys who are rolling them in the aisles in "Buck Privates" and most recently in
"We're in the Navy."

Charles Farrell returns to the screen after a long absence. In Monogram's "The Deadly Game"
he will be teamed with June Lang.

Robert Taylor, Joan Crawford and Greer Garson will be cast in "When Ladies Meet," an M.G.M. re-make which starred Ann Harding, Myrna Loy and Robert Montgomery in 1934.
This will be the second teaming of Taylor and Miss Crawford, the other occasion having been in 1936 and second pairing of Taylor and Miss Garson following "Remember."

The other day Wayne Morris passed another star at the Warner lot who had on a very loud plaid jacket. Said Wayne,
"What's that, a reject from Bundles for Britain?"

Five hundred and eighty Disney employees have telegraphed

BIRTHDAY CLUB

(in co-operation with Strand theatre)

Only five of the boys and girls who sent in answers figured out the correct solution to the contest story last week.

Therefore they are the winners,
as follows: Orla Larsen, Margaret Schrack and Jack McCannan, Newmarket, and Edmund Skinner, a new birthday club member, and Ruth Armitage, both of Newmarket, R.R. 3. The correct answer was "strychnine."

They may obtain their free admission to the Strand theatre matinee this Saturday by presenting themselves at the theatre.
They are especially lucky this week, as there is an exciting new serial starting at the Strand, entitled "The Return of the Spider."

One of the club members, from Cedar Valley, was a winner last week, but couldn't get to the theatre because of the bad storm. She writes to ask if she may attend this week instead.

In cases where out-of-town members are unable to get in to the theatre the Saturday immediately following the announcement of their names as winners, it will be all right for them to attend
the following week.

Let's have some more members for the birthday club! Under those 14 or under may win the free admissions to the matinees, but boys and girls of any age will be welcomed to the club and will receive birthday congratulations in The Era when their birthdays come.

Who will be the five winners next week? Read the interesting contest story, work out the puzzle, and you may be one of the lucky ones. Answers should reach The Era by Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. D.S.T.

THE CONTEST STORY

"Strychnine!" said Detective
Sureluck as he noted the puzzled brows of the constabulary.

"Of course," wisely commented
Constable No. 677 after it sank in.

"Most clocks have face and hands, but this one has a voice, and no face or hands, as far as I have seen yet," chimed in No.
81.

Dr. Wiseman reflectively asked Detective Sureluck if he wished whatever strychnine might be in the drawer and on the cabinet cleaned up.

"Not yet, we must see what is in the other drawers first," he said. "There are four more drawers, all seem to be locked, and there are no apparent key-holes. That is a puzzle."

"Note the tiny letters at the left of each drawer. The second drawer has 'A' on it, the third
'T', the fourth 'D', the fifth
'A' again. Interesting!"

"Over here, hardly discernible in the varnish, we have the words: 'Key—this year.' I see.
'This year' is 1941. That explains the A, I, D, A, on the drawers. A is the first letter, I the ninth in the alphabet, D the fourth. AIDA is 1941. The alphabet has just been turned into numbers, running from 1 to 26. Very simple."

"Very," said No. 677.
"I'd just as soon stick to fingerprints, myself," said the finger-print expert.

"Now what do these numbers mean, I wonder," continued Detective Sureluck. He copied them from the cabinet, where they were hardly visible, to a piece of paper.

"They must tell me how to open the remaining drawers," said Detective Sureluck. He wrote down: "16 18 5 19 19; 20 8 9 18 4; 23 8 9 12 5; 16 21 12
12 9 14 7; 15 20 8 5 18 19."

What was the secret of opening the drawers?

gham and family and Mrs. George H. Thompson attended the Ayrshire picnic at Pickering on Saturday.

"It takes dollars to supply the fighting forces; are you holding your end up? Buy Victory Bonds."

KESWICK
United Church Garden
Party Date Is July 9

Services in the United church were exceptionally well attended on Sunday. Rev. Gordon Lapp was in charge and preached in his usual forceful manner. The choir rendered the anthem,
"When Morning Gilds the Skies."
Many summer visitors were welcomed at this service. Summer visitors will be made very welcome at all classes in the church school.

Next Sunday, June 22, will be the summer celebration of the sacrament of the Lord's supper and reception of new members.
Morning service will be at 11
a.m. and the evening service at 7:30 p.m. S.T. After next Sunday there will be a change in the hours during the summer.

During the week, considerable work is being carried on at the church. The organ is being moved from the old location to the chancel. Repairs are also being made to the foundation.
Altogether the church is undergoing considerable renovation.
The old stucco has been removed from the north side and will be replaced by new, which will add very much to the appearance of the church.

The Y.P.U. have entered a team in the mixed (girls and boys) softball league, playing in Queensville last week and on Wednesday of this week Queens-ville returning the visit. After the game all repaired to the church for a worship program, led by Queensville, the home folks serving refreshments.

Rev. Gordon Lapp, Mr. Wm.
Marritt and Miss Joy Marritt attended Toronto Centre presbytery at Victoria Square on Tuesday.

Joel Sedore is ill and is confined to bed.

Mr. and Mrs. Ethan Morton of Brown Hill visited in Keswick over the weekend.

Miss Joan Baines, nurse-in-training at St. Michael's hospital, Toronto, is enjoying her holidays with her parents.

Mrs. C. E. Jeffreys has taken up residence in the village for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Knights are spending several days at their summer cottage and visited at the home of Mrs. Knights' father, Mr. J. A. Morton.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Southam,
Mr. George Hutchison, Miss Kay Maker and Miss Ella Hutchison were visitors at the home of Mr.
and Mrs. J. Morton recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Pollock

and Mrs. Cecil Taylor attended the Congregational-Christian church conference held in Newmarket last week.

Visitors at the home of Mr.
and Mrs. A. MacKinnon over the weekend were Mrs. Percy Wilson and family of Niagara Falls,
Mrs. Clarence Wilson of St.
Catharines, Mr. and Mrs. Donald
Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jardine of Queensville.

A big event in the United church will be the annual garden party, which will be held on July 9.

Miss K. Peel, R.N., formerly of the Western Hospital, Toronto, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Winch, recently married, are welcomed to the community.

Mrs. L. A. Howard of Toronto has graciously offered North Gwillimbury branch of the Red Cross society the use of the beautiful grounds of her summer residence, Poplar Point, Keswick, Lake Simcoe, and a garden party will be held there on Thursday, July 17.

BELHAVEN

INSTITUTE HEARS
CONVENTION REPORT

The regular monthly Institute meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Carson Pollock, Island Grove, on June 10. It was well attended by a large number of members and friends.

Mrs. M. Sedore presided at the meeting, with the usual order of business.

Miss Iva Stiles gave a report of the district annual convention, which was held at Nobleton.

Miss Muriel Willoughby played two piano selections, after which Mrs. Erwin Winch gave some very interesting current events.

Mrs. Fisher demonstrated the method of finishing the toe of a sock, also some very interesting facts of British war work.

Fred Morton entertained the crowd by his most picturesque description of his pioneer days in the west.

Ten was then served to the ladies by the hostesses, Mrs.
Cecil Prosser, Mrs. Harvey King
and Mrs. Carson Pollock.

VIRGINIA

BRIDAL COUPLE ARE HONORED BY FRIENDS

A number of people from the community gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Rae who were recently married, on Thursday evening, June 12. Mrs. Rae was formerly Miss Mabel Hadden, daughter of Mr. Wm. Hadden and the late Mrs. Hadden of Virginia Beach. The bride and groom were presented with a beautiful purse containing $19
as well as several other useful gifts from friends in the community.

The address, which was read,
mentioned the gratitude of the United church for the many kind acts both Mr. and Mrs. Rae had done. Later in the evening a lunch was served and Mrs. Rae's lovely trousseau and wedding gifts were admired by her friends.

W. I. BOOTH REALIZES $97 ON SPORTS DAY

Mrs. Hugh Price has been visiting her son, Arthur Dawson, at Sudbury.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Kurtz and family motored to North Bay to spend the weekend.

Several members of the W.M.S. of the United Church attended the Presbyterian meeting at Stouffville last Tuesday.

The Mount Albert Women's Institute held its June meeting in the United Church basement on Thursday afternoon. The report of the booth on sports day showed a balance of $97.50, after expenses were paid. The ladies voted $10 to be sent to the fund to buy sugar for jam. As this is not a fruit area, they ask that all jam be made where large quantities can be done, so it will be uniform. Sugar will be supplied for this.

Mrs. Tilley gave the report of the district meeting held at Nobleton. At the election of officers for the district, one of the members, Mrs. B. Sinclair, was honored by being made president for North York district. This concluded the business and as a number of Zephyr ladies were guests of Mount Albert they gave a very fine program.

Mrs. Armstrong, their president, gave a short talk on the district meeting of northern Ontario, which was very interesting, and then followed readings, piano solos and duets, and vocal duets, all of which were thoroughly enjoyed. After lunch was served a real old-fashioned social time brought to a close a well-spent afternoon.

Mr. Roy Carr and Mr. Milton Gibney attended Orange lodge at Northview on Saturday night. It was the official visit of the county officers.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Pegg visited Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carr on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carr spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Pegg, Keswick.

L.O.L. 902 held a special meeting on Monday evening at the home of Milton Gibney in connection with the July 12th celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan. Hogg and Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Hogg of Collingwood Mountain spent the weekend with their aunt, Mrs. M. Riebreugh, and other relatives. Mrs. Dan. Hogg is remaining a week with Mrs. Riebreugh of Mount Albert.

Dr. and Mrs. G. W. E. Macpherson and children have returned from a week's vacation spent in eastern Ontario.

Dr. W. L. Carruthers has been transferred from Camp Borden to Espanola and left for there on Friday morning.

Horace Brown and Stan. Draper are also being sent to Espanola on guard duty.

Mrs. E. Wagg will open her flower garden next Saturday, June 21, from 3 o'clock, in the afternoon, and all evening for the Red Cross tea, which will be sponsored by the Mount Albert unit, who will serve afternoon tea. This event is for the whole of the township. Mrs. Wagg's peonies and many other flowers are a beautiful sight and no one should miss this opportunity to visit her garden and also help the Red Cross.

MOUNT ALBERT HOLD LUCKY TICKETS ON MT. A. SPORTS DAY

Embro, in Oxford county, carried off the harness horse honors.

In the heavy horse classes notable wins were scored by J. Y. Murdoch, John Bowser, George Anthony and Son, Heber Downs and Don Alda Farms, Mr. Bowser captured the Morning and Metcalf shield for the fourth time in a row, J. Y. Murdoch won the E. J. Davis trophy and Heber Downs took the R. H. Pringle trophy.

In the evening, under the direction of Mr. Bowser, a huge crowd attended the dance and booths in the town park.

"Shirley" Gilham and his orchestra provided the dance music and the crowd enjoyed dancing round and squares on the floor in the open air. Most popular game of the midway was the booth in which contestants had to toss a ring over the ankle of one of three pretty Toronto girls. The large refreshment booth manned by countless local workers and run by show officials did a land office business, as did the merry-go-round.

The draw on the Afghan ponies, donated by Mrs. Viola Fieldon of Port Credit, was won by N. L. Nathanson, Toronto theatre manager, and raised a total of over $100, while Elton Armstrong won the prize donated by Deer and Byers of Newmarket. Mr. Armstrong quickly turned this back to the show and it was auctioned off to A. W. McLennan, first vice-president, who purchased it for $27.

The women's exhibits in the high school auditorium were well filled and most attractive. The Aurora Red Cross had a splendid exhibit of 125 different articles in their display. An exhibition by the household science class of the Aurora high school was also on display.

The prize-winners were: light-weight hunters, 1st, Miss M. Eaton, 2nd and 3rd, O. D. Robinson, 4th, H. R. Bain; middle and heavy hunters, 1st, Miss M. Eaton, 2nd, Miss M. Eaton, 3rd, H. R.
